Philby Talks!

MOSCOW (UPI) — Harold Philby, 55, the British double-agent who served Russia as a spy in London and Washington for 30 years, Tuesday gave his first interview since reaching Moscow in 1963, saying he had no regrets over his defection and loyalty to Russia.

Philby said the depression and the split in British socialism in the 1930s led him to devote his life to "a fight for communism."

"That's why I did it," he said. "I would do it again tomorrow."

Philby said he is living well in a large, comfortable apartment supplied by the Kremlin, in whose intelligence service he works. He said he was "never happier and certainly never healthier" but declined to discuss wife Melinda, formerly married to fellow spy Donald Maclean.

"I was a perfectly genuine Socialist up to 1931," Philby said. "But after that I became disaffected with British politics and set out on another fateful course."

The basic event, he said, was the "disastrous split" of the Labor Party under Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald in 1931.

"I can't say that my conversion to communism happened at any fixed point in time," he said. "I had two pretty hard years, from 1931 to 1933."

"But I do know that, after those two years of painful thought, I had made up my mind by June, 1933. I was already a Communist."

"The background of my thinking was the economic crisis and massive unemployment in the capitalist world, and the apparent helplessness of existing forces to deal with it."

Ousting of Liberals 'Act of Patriotism'

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield, who will be sworn in as an MP this morning, said Tuesday it would be an "act of patriotism" if his party was to oust the Liberal government.

He said the party will seize any opportunity it can to defeat the government in the Commons and thus force an election, putting the most pressure on the issue of government "mismanagement" of its financial operations.

Stanfield said he won't make a major speech for several days.

OTTAWA (CP) — Some good has resulted from her remarks that there is rotten management in the CBC, State Secretary Judy LaMarsh told the Commons broadcasting committee Tuesday.

"Some members of management woke with a start in the last two weeks and I think that's helpful, very helpful," said Miss LaMarsh, who reports to Parliament for the public broadcasting agency.

But she refused to go into details of her charge made Nov. 1 on the Pierre Berton show. That would just start another Seven Days controversy and the CBC already had complained it was being investigated to death, she said.

Miss LaMarsh appeared before the committee which is to go over the new broadcasting bill. It already has approval in principle from the Commons.

MPS RAPPED

She rapped MPs who, during the Commons debate, seemed to be condemning the CBC. She reminded the committee that Parliament has accepted the principle of public broadcasting.

Miss LaMarsh said the section of the bill outlining one CBC aim as national unity should not lead to any witch hunt for separatists in the French-language side of the CBC.

"No one wants to encourage witch hunts of any kind," she said. Miss LaMarsh disclosed she has told a group of CBC producers the CBC is independent of the federal government, but not of Canada.

Views Personal

The nation-wide Association of Producers had objected in a telegram Nov. 6 to her statements that the CBC is a factor in national unity, saying its job is to "reflect and interpret" life.

Miss LaMarsh replied CBC employees can hold personal political views but cannot use public facilities to forward these views or to do things "in a manner subversive to the democratic process."

TWO-DAY BAN

Dealing with the bill, Miss LaMarsh said she would not object if the committee decided to wipe out the two-day prohibition on political advertising before election day. But she stood firm on a proposed $100,000 fine on private broadcasters who break the new law, saying it shows the government means business.

In the Commons, Prime Minister Pearson turned aside all questions about the Monday statement of CBC directors rejecting the LaMarsh allegations. He said he is examining the statement and hasn't decided whether to make a reply, but did say he does not intend to call for the resignation of the directors.

In Toronto, newspaper reports speculated the new CBC president will be George Davidson, 58, a bilingual veteran of the civil service and now secretary of the federal treasury board.

Soccer Finish Unusual

Unusual goal, flying past Victoria High goalie Kjeld Brodegaard, Tuesday gave Mount View 3-3 victory in second sudden-death final game for Colonist Cup and south Island high school soccer title. First game Friday ended 1-1 and second saw two goals in last minute, Vic High getting the tie in dying seconds. Teams agreed on spot kicks until someone missed, Dennis Sommer scoring this one for Mount View and Brodegaard, ace Vic High kicker, then missing at other end. Full details are on Page 14.—(Jim Ryan)

Peace with Honor First

LBJ DEFIES POLLS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is quoted in a labor newspaper as saying he will pursue peace with honor in Vietnam even though "I may wind up with a poll of one per cent before it's over with."

Johnson's quote in The Machinist apparently referred to recent polls reflecting a drop in his popularity among many Americans.

The latest Louis Harris poll indicated Monday support for Johnson's determination "to fight on until a negotiated peace is reached" had dropped 11 per cent in a month to only 26 per cent in late October.

And the Gallup Poll reported Monday that for the first time since 1957 Americans expressed more confidence in the Republican party in handling the war and other U.S. problems than in the Democratic party.

Premier Bennett flies to Ottawa today to bargain, lecture and bargain some more. The bargaining that goes on in the federal-provincial conference of finance ministers will almost certainly include the issues of federal contributions towards medicare in B.C. after next July 1.

Outside the conference the premier will also have talks with External Affairs Minister Martin on clearing up the overdue U.S. $12,000,000 payment for Columbia River Treaty flood control benefits.

TEMPTATION

Mr. Bennett said Tuesday he proposes to "keep an open mind" — ready to learn, ready to listen. But few expect him to resist the temptation to tell Finance Minister Sharp how to put national finances in order.

There is apparently no formal brief to be presented by B.C. at the Ottawa meeting, which lasts through Thursday and Friday. But recently the premier has been publicly rehearsing the speech which everyone expects him to make on this occasion.

AVOID DEBT

He claims deficit financing and the huge national debt are primary causes of inflation in Canada. He has also outlined what steps B.C. is taking to curb inflationary forces in this province.

They include staying out of debt and keeping increases in provincial spending in line with growth in population and ordering crown corporations and other groups whose debt is government guaranteed to borrow only for essential projects.

While national medicare and its possible postponement after the announced July 1, 1968 starting date is not on the conference agenda it is almost certain to be fully discussed.

GRANTS JULY 1

Recently, Sharp and other federal ministers have indicated Ottawa can't afford to launch the national scheme on schedule but they will federal grants will be available July 1 to those provinces with their own plans.

This, in federal eyes, means Saskatchewan only, but B.C. claims its provincial medicare

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A man died Monday without regaining consciousness, 10 years after an elevator cable snapped and plunged 19 construction workers five stories.

Charles Nelson was the eighth man to die from the mishap. Five died the day the elevator took its plunge. Two others died a short time later.

Productivity Contract Key

The first labor agreement in Canada to be based on productivity was signed in Victoria Tuesday night.

The Victoria Mechanical Industrial Relations Association and Local 324 of the Plumbers and Pipe Fitters Union ratified a new wage agreement to become effective Nov. 24.

M. J. Griffin, who headed the mechanical contractors' negotiating committee, said: "This new agreement follows the suggestions of the Economic Council of Canada and bases all wage increases on increases in cost-of-living index and in productivity."

INTO 1971

"It should not therefore be inflationary."

The new agreement replaces a five-year agreement that would terminate March 31, 1969. The new agreement will extend to March 31, 1971.

A transition payment of 17 cents an hour, effective Nov. 24, will increase the hourly wage from $3.88 to $4.05. Further transition payments will be made until March 31, 1969 — when the original five-year agreement would have terminated — so that by then Victoria plumbers and pipefitting journeymen will be receiving $4.65 an hour.

BASED ON INDEX

The new wage formula becomes effective April 1, 1969, and is based on cost-of-living index as calculated on the average national consumer price index for the Sept. 1 to Aug. 31 period of the preceding year.

It is also based on productivity. On April 1, 1969, and again on April 1 the following year, the journeymen will receive a productivity increase of 3.5 per cent. This increase is based on the increased output per worker in the construction industry between 1951 and 1966.

This will mean that if the cost of living increased 2 per cent annually between now and 1970 journeymen will receive $4.92 an hour on April 1, 1969, and $5.20 per hour on April 1 the next year.

Civil War Revived In Yemen

ALGIERS (Reuters) — The Algerian government press service said Tuesday night forces of FLOSY, the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen, are marching on Aden and have been bombed by British planes.

The report came after Britain announced it will open negotiations on the independence of South Arabia with the National Liberation Front, which has been engaged in a bloody power struggle with FLOSY.

Watts Key Arrested

ALTADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Marquette Frye, 23, whose arrest for drunk driving has been blamed for touching off the multi-death Watts riot of 1965 in Los Angeles, was among three men arrested here Tuesday for investigation on suspicion of trying to break into a market.

Peace in Hours Prevented By Hanoi Stand

NEW YORK (UPI) — As thousands of antiwar demonstrators rioted outside the New York Hilton Hotel, U.S. Secretary of State Rusk said inside Tuesday night peace could come to Vietnam in hours if Hanoi agreed to "minimum co-operation" with the U.S.

He spoke shortly after North Vietnam turned down the latest Washington peace offer, and also disclosed Red China has turned down several U.S. proposals for better relations.

In the violence outside, bottles of ink and other objects were thrown at police who charged the demonstrators with nightsticks swinging. Five policemen and three others were injured and 20 demonstrators arrested before the mob of 3,000 broke up.

Rusk touched only briefly on Vietnam in a speech to the Foreign Policy Association on its 50th anniversary, warning of the dangers of backing down unilaterally. (See also Page 30.) "Those who are concerned about escalation," he said, "should know we have tried over and over again, through diplomacy and by practical actions on the ground, to start the process of de-escalation, only to face a categorical rejection from the other side."

"All violence could end within hours with minimum co-operation from the authorities in Hanoi."

Republican Liberal Wins

Voters Veto Shirley

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. — Former child movie idol Shirley Temple Black, 39, went down to an upset defeat in a special U.S. congressional byelection Tuesday at the hands of Paul McCloskey, 40, a liberal Republican and Korean war hero.

The result means that Mc-

Closkey, who piled up a lead of more than 12,000 votes over Mrs. Black with 400 of 575 precincts reporting, will face the leading Democrat, Roy Archibald, in a runoff election Dec. 12.

Mrs. Black's bad news started coming within minutes of the closing of the polls when she lost her home precinct to McCloskey, 75 to 66.

The open primary, in which voters of either party can freely cross party lines, calls for the leading Republican to face the leading Democrat in a runoff. Tuesday's election would have been settled if any candidate had polled 51 per cent of the votes.

With all but 11 of the 575 precincts reporting, McCloskey had piled up 50,634 votes to 33,015 for Mrs. Black. Among the Democrats, Archibald led Edward Keating 14,645 votes to 8,564.

The 11 candidates included five Republicans, five Democrats and an independent. The byelection was held to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Republican Rep. Arthur Younger last spring.

Main issues were the "Hollywood backlash" and the Vietnam war, on which Mrs. Black was a hawk and McCloskey a dove.

Elsewhere in U.S. politics, former Minnesota governor Harold Stassen, a frequent candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said he will try again in the Wisconsin 1968 Republican primary as a "peace candidate."

Big Greek Yacht Just Bidding Time

ALL AT SEA: Anyone looking out from Ogden Point may have wondered what a 294-foot yacht was doing at anchor. She is the former Greek vessel Delos which is being transferred to Canadian registry at Vancouver.

The Delos is to be renamed the Polar Star and will have a Canadian crew.

The German-built ship has been bought by the Alaska Cruise Co. of Vancouver, a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Seattle firm Westours Inc. The ship at one time cruised the North Sea from Hamburg to Heligoland. She then got into warmer water as a cruise ship in the Aegean Sea. Now it's back to cooler climes and a summer cruise schedule to Skagway.

The Greek skipper Minas Sigalis is to hand the vessel over soon to Capt. E. M. Shepard of Vancouver. The 22 Greek crewmen will fly home.

NO JOKE AT ALL: It really did begin as a joke when Mrs. Evelyn Whitfield wore her friend's wig. The wig cost $150 and is long and shaggy. They come that way so ladies who can afford to buy them can also afford to have them styled and set by their favorite hairdresser. Unset the wig looks like a hippie in a headwind.

As a gag Mrs. Whitfield decided to wear it on a bus trip to visit her cousins at Port Alberni. She also wore knee-high leather boots and an olive-drab rubber storm coat. To top off the lot she wore a yellow cap.

From the moment she arrived at the Victoria bus depot the trip was one long series of insults and indignities. A man and his wife, who were in the line behind her, allowed her out of the way with overt scorn. Then in the foulup she was shortchanged $5 but an alert clerk soon fixed that part of the misery.

To keep tabs on the running commentary of snide asides Mrs. Whitfield was accompanied by her friend Florence Whelan, wearing conventional dress.

When the hippie-for-a-day left her seat on the bus to make a phone call at Duncan she returned to find it taken. To mark her spot she had left a copy of the Colonist on her seat but all she got back was her paper.

When the pair of lady travellers changed buses at Nanaimo the only seat left was at the back. Another passenger turned around and said in a forthright voice to her husband after looking over Mrs. Whitfield's outfit, "Boy, I know I am going to be sick after seeing that."

When the bus arrived even Mrs. Whitfield's cousins did not recognize her. They are both serving with the Salvation Army at Port Alberni.

At last Mrs. Whitfield standing around. The one woman who was going to be sick looked sicker and said, "Now I have seen everything which led Mrs. Whitfield to comment, 'It sure takes a lot of courage to be a little bit different.' She is absolutely right — it takes plenty."

REALLY HOT LINE: Radio man Vic Williams set the hot line buzzing when he offered to give his audience a four-letter word for intercourse right on the air. The switchboard lit up like a Christmas tree long before the noon deadline for the show.

With just one minute to go he said he would spell the word out loud and so he did. T-a-l-k.

Look it up in the dictionary and you will see it fits the definition. Sure had some of the sensitive minds busy for an hour or so.

IVY LEAGUE: At least one man in complete agreement with the idea of getting a garden club for the University of Victoria.

G. H. Llewellyn of 941 Meares thinks they should get cuttings from the ivy that clings to the walls of the Empress Hotel and start them around the stark concrete buildings on campus.

Bath-a-Day Keeps Odor Away

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Why should a boy of eight perspire with such a strong odor? It is very strong and he has a bath at least twice a week, but he can smell the same way shortly after. He seems to have no other complaints. Our family doctor seems to be too busy to worry about such things. — Mrs. S.B.

Let's first discuss what causes body odor. Then maybe we can find a workable answer. Certain glands of the body give off odorous material. These are located chiefly in the armpits, groin and feet. (Ordinary perspiration from face, trunk, etc., has little odor.)

The apocrine glands are the ones that contribute most to odor. These do not give off much odorous material until puberty, but it is possible that this lad, at eight, may be entering puberty a bit early.

The odor is accentuated by bacteria on the skin. Bacteria are everywhere. It is possible, I think, that we have individual peculiarities in the bacteria that we accumulate or tend to attract. Getting an exact answer to that would entail more laboratory work than would be even faintly reasonable — if, indeed, it could be accomplished at all.

But bacteria in general certainly have their effect on the material coming from the sweat glands. This may be the key to it.

the whole problem with this boy.

I would try a bath every night, and perhaps every second or third bath use one of the antiseptic sudsing emulsions containing hexachlorophene. Such emulsions are readily obtainable at the drug store.

The purpose is not only to wash away, more frequently, the products from his sweat glands, but to reduce (with the special emulsion) the prevalence of bacteria on his skin.

There is also the chance that you may be over-emphasizing the skin odor. I've known this to happen when someone once happened to notice an odor and then became overly conscious of it.

Dow Recruiting Opposed By UVic Student Council

By STEVE HUME

The University of Victoria's student council has passed a resolution opposing the Dow Chemical Co. of Canada when it recruits chemistry graduates on campus Nov. 20.

At a meeting Sunday night the 14-member council passed a motion directed against Dow Chemical, one of the major recruiters of chemistry graduates on Canadian university campuses.

COUNCIL OPPOSED

"This council goes on record as being opposed to the use of napalm," the motion read.

The motion continued with a resolution that "students be made aware to the effect that Dow Chemical of Canada, which is going to be recruiting on campus, makes ingredients for napalm."

The council did not state at the meeting what method would be used in advising potential student recruits of the company's activities and operations in relation to napalm production by the parent company in the United States.

INGREDIENTS

While actual napalm is not being produced in Canada, essential ingredients are manufactured for export at Dow Chemical plants inside the country, McLean said.

He also said he understood at present the only large corporation actively involved in napalm production on a major scale for the American military is the parent company of Dow Chemical of Canada.

A representative for the company will interview honors and major chemistry graduates for analytical laboratory or research and development work with the company.

"This guy is coming to the UVic campus to recruit people who may not be aware the company is involved in the production of a weapon as terrible as napalm," McLean said.

Other students have reported they are planning demonstrations, possibly along the lines of non-violent sit-ins or paid advertisements in The Martlet.

In Vancouver...

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 300 students staged a sit-in Tuesday at the University of British Columbia, protesting a Canadian chemical company's recruitment program.

About 100 of the group jammed inside a building where two recruiters from Dow Chemical Co. of Canada Ltd. were carrying on interviews.

The protesters alleged that the company makes a chemical used in napalm fire bombs being dropped in Vietnam.

The other 200 stood outside the building.

The recruiters said the Canadian company makes the chemical but that none of it is exported to the United States.

Job applicants were forced to pick their way over and around the protesters, but there were no incidents and the group dispersed later.

Half of Student Body Sent Home by Riots

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (UPI)

Nearly half the 2,600 students at Central State University went home Tuesday after trustees, fearing renewed violence, ordered the predominantly Negro school closed until further notice.

As the students piled into buses and cars, 300 National Guardsmen, pelted by a driving rain and snowstorm, clamped a tight security lid on the campus, permitting only authorized people to enter.

The board of trustees ordered the school closed for the "safety and welfare" of the students following violence Monday night in which 91 people were arrested in a rock and brick-throwing spree quelled by guardsmen and highway patrolmen.

At least nine policemen were injured in the melee, which erupted after police sought to arrest a student who returned to the campus after he had been expelled.

plan — likely with some amendments to meet federal requirements being made at the forthcoming session — should also receive a 50 per cent grant from Ottawa.

Through an aide, Premier Bennett said Tuesday that if Saskatchewan gets any medicare assistance from Ottawa, then B.C. will demand federal sharing of the B.C. Medical Plan.

INTEREST ITEM

An Ottawa report, following Monday's announcement that Congress has approved $12,000,000 owing to B.C. since completion of Duncan Lake dam last July 31, said the external affairs department was "pursuing" the question of interest payments with the U.S. state department.

If the 6.5 per cent interest sought by B.C. is not forthcoming

Enemy Ground Fire Hit General's Copter

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. command said Tuesday ground fire caused the crash of a helicopter that killed Maj. Gen. Bruno A. Hochmuth, commander of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division, on an inspection flight 400 miles north of Saigon.

Hochmuth, 56-year-old Texan, served as an instructor at the Canadian Army Staff College in Kingston, Ont., in 1953. He was the second American general to die in the Vietnam war.

Hochmuth, who took command of the 3rd Division March 18, plunged with the shattered helicopter into a lake 10 miles north of Hue Tuesday.

FIVE OTHERS
The command said five other persons died with Hochmuth. It had been announced earlier that four other persons were in the craft. The five listed later were three members of the helicopter crew, a Vietnamese interpreter and an American staff officer.

The original report on the incident said the cause of the crash had not been determined, but headquarters officers in Saigon had stated it apparently was not the result of ground fire.

HELP COMING
Marine officers said earlier, however, they did not rule out the possibility of hostile action as the cause, and today's official communique said the helicopter "was hit by ground fire and crashed."

Thailand officially announced that, at the request of the Saigon government, it will send a division of volunteers to augment its 2,500 armed servicemen now serving in South Vietnam. A Thai division is made up of 10,000 or so men.

Though at least three American generals have been wounded in combat in Vietnam, the first to perish in the war was Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm, 48, commander of the Strategic Air Command's 3rd Air Division on Guam.

Elsewhere:
● In Washington, the White House said it expects the matter of another U.S. bombing pause in Vietnam to come up during discussions this week between President Johnson and U.S. military and diplomatic chiefs on visit in Washington from South Vietnam.

● The Ketch Phoenix with eight pacifists aboard sailed for the South Vietnamese port of Da Nang from Hong Kong Tuesday, after changing a plan to head for Haiphong with medical supplies worth $6,000 for North Vietnam.

● Again in Washington, Senate GOP leader Everett Dirksen said "there is no substitute for victory" in Vietnam. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, meanwhile, said U.S. war protests were "disturbing the Vietnamese" but were not bothering U.S. troops.

● In Tokyo, police threatened to forcibly search the homes of members of a Japanese anti-war committee unless the group disclosed the hiding places of four U.S. sailors who deserted in protest against the Vietnam war.

● And at Williamsburg, Va., Rev. Cotesworth Pinckney Lewis insisted Tuesday his remarks in a sermon Sunday to President Johnson were grossly misunderstood. He regretted that the remarks, meant to be encouraging, were interpreted as critical. Mr. Lewis, in the sermon, asked Johnson to give a "straightforward logical explanation" of U.S. Vietnam policy.

Cong Mortars Wreck Planes

SAIGON (UPI)—A North Vietnamese mortar attack on the base camp of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division at Dak To early Wednesday morning destroyed two air force C130 transport planes and damaged a third, Saigon headquarters reported.

The assault opened the third week of bitter fighting on South Vietnam's central highlands. Field reports said the mortar shells touched off explosions that engulfed the big four-engine planes in flames.

An air force pilot dashed through the rain of shells and hopped into the cockpit of another C130 on the Dak To flight line and taxied it down the airstrip out of danger.

Reports from Dak To said there was no immediate word on American casualties in the fierce assault.

Gasoline was reported to have gushed from the ruptured aircraft tanks in sheets of flame which consumed the planes in a matter of seconds. Black smoke rose more than 1,000 feet over the base. The planes are used to ferry reinforcements and ammunition into the Dak battle zone.

Top Arabs May Meet

CAIRO (UPI) — The Arab nations are expected to call an urgent summit conference to discuss the Middle East situation, the Middle East news agency reported Tuesday.

Quoting a Baghdad Radio broadcast, the agency said the time and place had not been set for the summit. Arab leaders had tentatively agreed at their summit in Khartoum, the Sudan, two months ago to meet again late this year in Baghdad.

'SPLIT VOTE'

In Cairo, the Egyptian newspaper Al Ahran accused the United States Tuesday of trying to split the security council at the United Nations so that none of the resolutions could win the necessary majority for approval.

In Nazareth, an explosion went off Tuesday in a car assembly plant, causing some damage but no injuries. A military spokesman said other explosive devices, apparently planted by Arab terrorists, were removed before they could go off.

The report said the Arab leaders would call a summit "on an urgent basis" to discuss latest developments in the Middle East situation in light of the current efforts at the United Nations to reach a settlement.

UN MEETING

Al Ahran said the Egyptian mission to the United Nations had held a series of meetings with other ambassadors in an effort to offset "American pressure on the security council members."

Al Ahran said the council was now considering four draft resolutions on the Middle East — the Afro-Asian and American drafts, one sponsored jointly by Brazil and Argentina and another by Japan.

It said Egyptian diplomats were trying to get enough votes together to defeat "the American attempt to split votes among various resolutions."

Britain Tries Compromise

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Britain said Tuesday it has embarked on a fresh attempt to break the United Nations Security Council deadlock on the Middle East with a compromise resolution that would be acceptable to the big powers, the Arabs and Israel.

A British spokesman told reporters his delegation is seeking "maximum agreement, particularly among the permanent members of the council, with the idea of putting forward a British compromise text."

The council has before it two resolutions aimed at a first step toward a Middle East settlement. One, introduced by India, Mali and Nigeria, has been rejected by Israel. The others, sponsored by the United States, is not acceptable to the Arabs.

Neither proposal is believed to have the support of nine members of the 15-nation council, the number required for adoption.

Argentina and Brazil also are circulating a compromise proposal said to be similar to the draft resolution sponsored by 20 Latin American countries in the Middle East emergency session of the General Assembly last July.

The council is scheduled to meet on the Middle East question today.

Rhodesia-Britain Differences Bigger 'Than Ever'

LONDON (AP) — Commonwealth Secretary George Thomson told the House of Commons Tuesday the British government and the rebel white-minority Rhodesian regime are farther apart than ever on the question of Rhodesia's seizure of independence from Britain.

Thomson returned last weekend from a tour of Commonwealth countries in Africa and two days of talks with Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith.

"I am sorry to tell the House that differences between our positions and Mr. Smith's proved even greater than earlier discussions indicated," he said.

"I cannot pretend that as a result of the talks I feel hopeful of early settlement."

He said Smith had shifted his position significantly from previous talks with Prime Minister Wilson aboard the British warship Tiger off Gibraltar last Christmas.

Thomson said that as far as the British government is concerned "The door remains open if, after reflection upon our discussions, Mr. Smith and his colleagues conclude that the true interests of Rhodesia require that a settlement should be reached which could honorably be commended to the British Parliament."

LAST WEEK

"At our talks last week it became apparent that the changes Mr. Smith wished to make in the Tiger proposals were of a kind that would fundamentally affect their nature. I made it clear to Mr. Smith that these changes could not be reconciled with the principles established by successive British governments."

Cyprus Troops Switch

OTTAWA (CP) — The 1st battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Edmonton, has been designated as the ninth infantry battalion to serve with the United Nations force in Cyprus, the defence department said Tuesday.

The 1st PPCLI, a Winnipeg-based unit, will be the 1st battalion, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, and a Calgary squadron from the Fort Garry Horse armored regiment will begin a six-months' tour of duty in Cyprus in April subject to renewal of the force's mandate next month by the UN Security Council. The battery will not take its guns.

About 900 Canadians now are serving in Cyprus. Returning home in April will be the 1st battalion, Black Watch, Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the reconnaissance squadron of the Fort Garry Horse, Calgary.

That's the most an Accutron® timepiece will gain or lose in one month's time. And we'll put it in writing!

Accutron looks like a watch. But it isn't. It doesn't have a mainspring, a hairspring, or a balance wheel.

These parts make a watch run fast or slow. Accutron has replaced them with an electronic powered tuning fork. It splits each second into 360 equal parts. And makes the Accutron timepiece so precise, it won't gain or lose an average of more than two seconds a day. In fact, we guarantee accuracy to within 60 seconds a month. Just one darn minute.

The old-fashioned balance wheel principle is used in all watches, not the Accutron movement. The Accutron tuning fork makes possible the first guarantee of accuracy ever given.

Kennedy's Round

SENATOR ROBERT KENNEDY, already reported to be close to the top of the list in President Lyndon Johnson's "bad books," has probably qualified for a page to himself by his latest pronouncement on the Vietnam war.

At a time when opinion polls indicate the Johnson standing in the public's confidence to be at an all-time low, the shock-headed young senator has done nothing to improve the presidential position.

The United States, he says, threw away "the last best chance" for peace negotiations in Vietnam last winter.

This in itself is a severe and possibly unanswerable indictment of the administration, but the senator goes farther. The United States' government indicated at the time it was prepared to accept any reasonable excuse for a bombing halt.

But in fact, he charges, "our actual demands have been much more serious than our public statements have indicated."

Nothing, surely, could be calculated to shake the credibility of the administration more than this assertion.

Senator Kennedy, the brother of an assassinated Democratic president, has very possibly fired a fatal verbal broadside insofar as the dwindling presidential hopes of Mr. Johnson are concerned.

Reports from Saigon suggesting the Viet Cong may be bent upon a policy aimed at negotiation should be discounted. The assumption is based upon frivolous evidence. And rumors of Ho Chi Minh's illness are not likely to affect the will of the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong to resist.

Nevertheless, Senator Kennedy makes sense when he says:

"I continue to believe that we should go to negotiations in an effort to reach a peaceful and honorable settlement. Perhaps we cannot; but we shall never know until we try."

Whatever may be felt about the senator's principles, his loyalty to party and his president, or the political expediency of his announcement at this time, there is no doubt that he has considerably strengthened the argument for greater receptiveness towards peace negotiations by the United States government. The issue is too grave for his suggestion to be dismissed on the grounds of insincerity.

It has the weight of reasonableness, and the administration scarcely dare deny it.

MP Absenteeism

AT A TIME WHEN Canada is facing an economic crisis, when public political temper is running at its highest pitch for years, when general dissatisfaction with the administration of our national affairs is being openly expressed throughout the length and breadth of the country, it might be reasonably expected that every member of Parliament would make a point of being in the House of Commons when the management of the nation's business is being debated and decided upon.

But not so. The incredibly high rate of MP absenteeism continues uninterrupted. Only on Monday of this week the government narrowly escaped being defeated on its manpower and immigration council bill by a vote of 73 to 64. The notable fact of this episode was not so much that the government had a close shave, but that 127 members of Parliament were not present to vote.

It would be unfair to say that party leaders and their whips are not concerned about this seeming disinterest on the part of their followers. But whatever they have done to rectify this situation apparently does not work.

As it appears that all their pleas, requests, orders, and demands for better attendance on the part of their members have been contemptuously rejected, they might well consider introducing some method which will guarantee that all elected members do the job they are so generously paid to do.

One suggestion might be to relate their salaries to their attendance in the House. Another might be to initiate a scale of fines for absenteeism.

After all, most Canadians only get paid for the work they do, and there is no reason why members of Parliament should be an exception.

UN in the Red

SINCE BRITAIN IS THE second-highest contributor to the United Nations' expenses, and in spite of her own grave economic embarrassments recently provided voluntarily an additional $10 million to bolster the UN budget, no nation has a better right to be heard in discussions bearing on the financing of the organization.

Others find it convenient to deny support of United Nations' policies for one reason or another and, in the light of their moral attitudes, of course, must also deny the funds which make possible whatever effectiveness the organization can muster in the face of emergency.

Discouraged, Secretary-General U Thant complained recently that with operations $60 million in the red there was "little cause for optimism."

And 14 experts who examined the UN financial situation brought in the astonishing verdict that as long as more than half the member-nations failed to meet their obligations the financial problem would continue. Elementary, my dear Watson.

Among others, Russia and France declined to bear their pro rata cost of the UN emergency forces in the Congo and Middle East, and at the moment the U.S.S.R. is in default a total of nearly $70 million. France has an unpaid obligation of over $17 million; Poland and Czechoslovakia more than $4 million apiece, according to latest figures.

U Thant has proposed a routine budget of $141.9 million for 1968, an advance of $12.4 million over 1967, and without taking into account any emergency which might develop. UN diplomats speak hopefully of the eventual elimination of the deficit through voluntary contribution. The trouble is, it is always the same volunteers.

Mr. J. I. M. Rhodes, British delegate to the Assembly's Fifth Committee, has made this point clearly: those states which have not made voluntary contributions towards elimination of the deficit are now expected to pay up.

Britain is disturbed by the disinclination of some countries to accept that the UN, in prudent budgeting, should look beyond the year immediately ahead. But clearly this is needed. And the two governing factors remain: what it is desired to achieve and the resources available for the achievement.

Half-Term Report

Chile's 'Miracle' Slow in Happening

By JOHN PARKER from Santiago, Chile

ON November 4, 1964, a devout but energetic Chilean of Swiss origin was installed as the head of Latin America's first Christian Democratic government. On the wave of enthusiasm that followed his election by a large majority, President Eduardo Frei was hailed as the man who was going to bring in the great Chilean "miracle."

Now Frei is halfway through his term and his miracle — though it has by no means ground to a standstill — is laboring pretty hard. This is not for want of fighting spirit on the part of Frei, for every inch of the progress he has made he had to fight for — often against the combined forces of Conservatives, Radicals and Communists voting together. But still Chile remains, in the recent words of a distinguished American economist, a "most unnecessarily poor country."

Frei's first and most formidable task was to reduce inflation. His proposal was to reduce it to 20 per cent in the first year and then by easy steps down to 5 per cent, which he considered an acceptable level for a developing country. He has not made it. The first two years went fairly well, but this year, Frei's third, the cost of living had already increased by 12 per cent at the end of six months.

There is not too much in the national coffers either. In spite of consistently high prices for copper, the keystone of Chile's economy, and the highest tax yield ever known here, it has still been necessary to resort to additional taxation in the course of 1967, flogging the old work-horses of tobacco, liquor and gasoline. This is no surprise to anyone watching government spending, much of it on non-profit social works, which is more than 50 per cent higher in 1967 than it was in 1964 when Frei took office.

Inflationary pressure on wages is now making itself felt. Many government departments have seen pay increases "postponed" in the past, and this year Finance Minister Sergio Molina feels he cannot do it again. Added to this, all government employees — and private ones too — want a legislated pay increase, and they will fight to make this equal to the cost of living rise, a policy which is in itself inflationary. The finance minister is currently talking in terms of a 12 per cent increase against a 20 per cent inflation, but he has not found any way to balance even that amount in his budget.

Yet the picture is not all black. Frei managed, after using all the political skill acquired over 30 years in the business, to get his legislation for the "Chileanization" of the big American copper mines. The state has already bought stock and formed three joint companies, the most important of which is the 51 per cent interest in the Kennecott "El Teniente" mine, reputed to have the largest copper reserves in the world deep in its mountain 45 miles outside of Santiago. After 50 years of operation, the mine seems to be just getting into its stride, and half of it now belongs to the Chileans.

Although it will be some time now before there is an appreciable increase in copper output, dollars are already beginning to flow into the country to finance expansion plans of the Kennecott-Chile, Anaconda-Chile and Cerro-Chile joint enterprises, which, together with government-assisted expansion of small mines, will double Chile's copper output to 1,200,000 tons annually, making her the top world producer, within some four years.

Other foreign investments seem to be coming in, too, which shows that there is confidence abroad in Frei and his men, and the work item investments committee says that it has more than $100 million in pending applications for investment by major world firms in Chile.

The only other significant measure of Frei's very wide plans which has found its way on to the statute book so far is the Land Reform Law, which went under the slogan: "The land for those who work it." But the scheme does not seem to be doing too well, not because of lack of good intentions, but for lack of cash and sound technical assistance. Even the government does not seem any too sure of the capabilities of farm laborers to take over and run their own farms, and instead of giving them the land is installing them as settlers.

Frei's mid-term finds his party split on basic principles. At this year's party elections, the extreme Left "Frei" wing gained control, and Frei — the officialist — were ousted. The new leaders lost no time in producing their plan for a "non-capitalist road to development" which envisaged all "strategic areas" of the economy as state-operated, a further sector with mixed state-private capital and finally a few private companies operating in defined fields but subject in any case to "operating conditions established by the state."

Frei is, of course, strongly opposed to this; his policy is that private enterprise should be the backbone of industry. Nevertheless, the rebels have managed to get a bill onto the floor of Congress to reform the Central Bank in such a way as to eliminate all privately-elected directors, and replace them with government-political nominated people. Maybe the gravest aspect of this would be that the bank would have almost total control of lending by the private banks, which it could direct as it wished.

Not that this split makes Frei's party any worse off than any of the others. The Centre and Left are equally at odds. The Communists continue, as always, with their steady propaganda, and the declared intention of one day gaining power through the polls, but their former allies, the Socialists, are advocating much wilder action.

Indeed, the Socialists have reached the stage where two senators and five deputies have been expelled from the party. The Radicals do not quite know where to turn; the Communists would like them as allies in a return to the old Popular Front, but the Socialists will have none of it. Other Radicals would like to see a revival of the defunct Democratic Front, in which they combined with the Right.

Soon this massive disunity must be resolved. By time honored tradition, banners must be raised soon around the possible candidates for the 1970 presidential elections.

The Christian Democrat heir apparent is Radomiro Tomic, at present ambassador in Washington, but the belief is gaining ground that he is by no means Frei's choice, which implies the whole of the officialist sector. Tomic has well-known leanings towards the rebel Left-wing of the party.

The Left and Centre parties must first sort themselves out and define their loyalties. It still seems that they may have to fall back on their thrice-defeated Dr. Salvador Allende, although another rebel sector — this time of Socialists — definitely rejects him.

The alternative would be a strong independent who could carry the floating vote, notably the women, who equal the men's voting strength in Chile. Banded about here is the name of Felipe Herrera, a one-time Socialist with wide international economic experience.

Meanwhile, Frei has another three years in which to bring off his miracle. Maybe he will not manage it, but it will not be for lack of effort. Even if there is no Chilean miracle, with all Frei's determination, he cannot help having something to show on the credit side when he ends his term.

Reason for Quick Peace Talks

Ho's Health a Matter of Concern

By EDWARD NEILAN from Hong Kong

ONE of the most critical elements in any Vietnam peace talks timetable is the health of Ho Chi Minh.

If the 77-year-old leader of North Vietnam should drop dead tomorrow, the United States and Communist China would be on a direct collision course.

Poised to fill any power vacuum once Ho passes is a tough pro-Chinese coterie of officials who seem to have an edge in Hanoi over the pro-Soviet faction.

Ho can stand up to Peking's Chairman Mao Tse-tung and the Soviet leaders as an equal. He is a Communist before Mao knew the real meaning of the word.

But any individual successor to Ho or even a ruling committee that might take over, would be much more susceptible to the wishes and pressures of giant next-door neighbor Red China.

The question of succession is one that seldom cracks into the headlines. But it is a matter of concern in the highest American councils. It is one of the key points which diplomats mention privately in their efforts to get peace talks under way as soon as possible.

Ho is under pressure from many sides. He has to steer his country clear of a military defeat, keep morale up despite daily bombing inspiration to the Viet Cong in the far south as well as for the North Vietnamese.

He also has to contend with the quarrelling Chinese and Soviets. Both Moscow and Peking realize that much of the future thrust of world communism will depend on how the Vietnam war is settled. The Red Chinese want it settled Mao's way, by victory through "people's war."

For this reason, most analysts believe it is highly unlikely that Red Chinese troops will ever enter the Vietnam war with hordes of troops as in the Korean War more than 10 years ago.

But brushes with American aircraft near the Sino-Vietnam border have brought hard warnings from Peking.

Moscow says "people's war" would be too great for other to the rescue and gave him another job. These days, with strong Peking pushing, Truong Chinh is back in favor and the man who counsels Ho not to talk peace with the United States.

It is speculated that Truong Chinh and his cronies would act swiftly to take over in the event of Ho's death or disability.

Their main threat is from the pro-Soviet wing of the leadership headed by the highly regarded Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap. Giap is the famed architect of the Dien Bien Phu victory over the French. His views are more moderate and generally more like Ho's.

The Chinese faction has been trying to pin Communist setbacks on Giap's strategy.

There are at least 40,000 Communist Chinese "combat engineers" inside North Vietnam and this force is a constant reminder to Ho that his neigh-

New Attitude in U.K.

Change in Education

By IVOR BROWN from London

IN the past the British did not bother much about education, admitting all who have the brains to be accepted; the state provides the fees.

Those who could afford the fees wanted to be rid of them for three-quarters of the year and this relief was provided by costly boarding-schools. There the young entry would be taught enough to scramble the sons into a gentlemanly profession and to make the daughters moderately literate.

Athletics were an important part of the curriculum. There was an abundance of cricket and football on the masculine side with tennis and field hockey for the girls.

A woman novelist recounting her experience of an expensive boarding school for girls related that her chief memory was of a tough games mistress shouting to the hockey players, "Run, girls, run!" Run she had to, and she hated running. Many boys too found that the games were no fun.

The century of free compulsory education for all British children will occur in 1970. This began as a brief introduction to the rudiments of knowledge. Not until 1918 was legal the age at which it was made for a child to leave school and seek some paid employment.

Now the obligatory schooling lasts until 15, and in 1970 it will be 16. This will not be widely popular since those who have no aptitude for learning resent being kept on "doing lessons" when they might be making money.

The system of education divided by social rank and income is now diminishing. Wealthier parents still make great financial sacrifices to get their young out of the home and into boarding-schools despite soaring fees. There was an old Victorian music-hall song which described the rich man in his mansion:

He's got education
Right up to his station
And servants in uniform
Handing the drinks.

Exalted station and expensive education are still connected. It is believed that the school which used to be described as "for the sons (or daughters) of gentlemen" will provide "a good start in life."

There certainly was some truth in that, especially on the male side. To wear the Old Boy's tie of a famous and costly academy was useful socially. The tie has become a joke. But it still helps to get good jobs.

The jest about the tie has been replaced by allusions to the Old Boys' network and the network retains some of its power. But at last there is change.

The alteration of this division by class of the nation's schooling has come at the lower end of the ladder. The old universities, once limited by cost, are admitting all who have the brains to be accepted; the state provides the fees.

The able child of poor parents can go without payment to a grammar school and thence, if he makes the grade, to Oxford or Cambridge.

I myself had the luck to go to Balliol College, Oxford, and so receive its annual record. The vast majority of my fellow undergraduates had been to one of Britain's "prestige" boarding-schools. Now I see the college has more than doubled its numbers and out of nearly 200 new members only 30 have come from the fee-paying schools.

At the same time the new universities have multiplied and their intake includes all social classes. Inquiries are made into the incomes of the parents and those who can contribute to the charges have to do so.

But there is nothing to prevent the son or daughter of a really poor home gaining completely free admission. The burden on the taxpayer is heavy, but one does not hear complaints. The nation has agreed to make education up to university level available to all who have the capacity to profit by it.

To obtain a place is not easy; the would-be entrant must have a really good school record, but, if the talent is there, so is the opportunity.

Yet there is some acute controversy about English schools. Those who make "fair shares" their battle cry want to get rid of the old "privilege" boarding-schools altogether or greatly to whittle their intake. The schools thus attacked state their willingness to accept a change, but they are not hurrying it on.

Meanwhile national policy is to create vast comprehensive schools in which any child can claim a free place.

The grammar schools, mostly old and proud of their traditions and educational standards, accept their pupils on proved capacity in the earliest of tests in their primary schools. They can thus be attacked as exclusive and are therefore fighting to maintain their identity and to resist absorption by the all-consuming comprehensive plan.

Thus politics and education have become embroiled. The issue is now the right of independent schools to survive, selecting their own entrants according to intellectual attainment and promise. It is no purpose of mine to take sides. What is important is that parents of all ranks and incomes who, rich or poor, once thought that schools were there to get young nuisances off their hands, are now concerned about educational policy. That is something new and valuable in British life.

U.S. Protectionism

Noises Needed from Abroad

By PHILIP DEANE

BOTH Mr. Mitchell Sharp and Prime Minister Pearson issued "threats" of retaliation against U.S. protectionist legislation, because President Johnson asked Canada to make threatening noises. As a matter of fact, all U.S. trading partners have been asked to make such noises because Mr. Johnson has so little support at home generally that he needs bolstering from abroad.

The point is that if Mr. Johnson comes out and says that "our trading partners will retaliate if we impose trade restrictions," the protectionist lobby in Washington answers: "You know you can't believe a word Lyndon says; nobody can afford to impose trade restrictions on us; we Americans are the world's biggest commercial power, everyone's largest trading partner; even if we restrict imports, the quantities we would still allow in would be too great for other nations to risk losing by playing tough with us."

In a sense, this is not far from the truth. The protectionist bills before Congress are to a fixed percentage of the U.S. market. For instance, the steel industry wants imports of steel to be kept at just under 10 per cent of steel consumption in the U.S.

Foreign steel sales in the U.S. have reached 11 per cent of the market this year; as the U.S. population grows and its consumption grows, the 10 per cent quota will soon represent as many tons of steel as were imported before the imposition of the quota. In theory, the converse is also true: if other nations impose corresponding quotas on the U.S., U.S. exports will still grow as the consumption of other countries grows.

But many economists object to such reciprocal restrictions. Any restriction, to start with, is the thin edge of the wedge, Johnson.

Domestic producers begin assuming they can expect protection and do not bother to compete — U.S. and British steel makers and ship builders have had this happen to them. Protectionism retards technological growth of the protectionist country. And, of course, it increases the problems of the underdeveloped countries which tend to be kept underdeveloped by the protectionist policies of more developed countries and this creates international misery, instability, revolution and dangerous tensions which have to be alleviated with foreign aid, a less natural and less desirable form of help than trade.

All these are arguments that have traditionally impressed congressional liberals and internationalists. They are so annoyed with Lyndon Johnson, these internationalists, that they refrain from defending any policies he proposes. Protests by America's allies serve as a reminder to the internationalists that more is at stake than the thin edge of the wedge, Johnson.

Author Indicts Warren Commission for 'Manipulating' Evidence

'Oswald 95 Per Cent Innocent'

By EVELYN IRONS, from New York

November 22, the fourth anniversary of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, is being marked by a fresh onslaught on the Warren report of 1964 that named Lee Harvey Oswald as the lone killer.

Accessories after the Fact, by Sylvia Meagher, is regarded as the best documented and most damning of any attack on the Warren report yet. A massive book of 250,000 words, it takes up the commission's points one by one and patiently refutes each of them by carefully culled evidence from its own records.

Mrs. Meagher, an executive of the World Health Organization in New York, compiled and published last year the only index that exists of the 26 volumes of hearings and exhibits that appeared two months after the commission's report itself.

"Oswald was 95 per cent innocent," Mrs. Meagher told me. "The report found him guilty. But the hearings and exhibits, instead of corroborating that verdict, create gravest doubts of his complicity in any of the crimes of which he was accused."

She denounced the members of the Warren commission and Chief Justice Earl Warren himself for "manipulating the evidence" contained in their own documents to back up their presumption that there was no conspiracy and that Oswald acted alone.

She said the report suppressed findings favorable to

Oswald

Warren

Oswald, overlooked testimony from crucial interviews and glossed over inconvenient facts.

In her book, Mrs. Meagher says: "The commission's blatant bias for and against witnesses and its double standard of judging credibility are beyond belief."

Mrs. Meagher's testimony is treated as impeccable, despite her poor showing under the sole cross examination to which she was subjected. Her unsupported statement that Oswald took a potshot at the rightist General Edwin Walker was accepted without question."

There is no indication in the vast collection of documentation, she maintains, that the commission at any time seriously considered the possibility that Oswald was not guilty, or that he had not acted alone.

I asked Edward Jay Epstein, whose book, Inquest, last year exploded international controversy over the Warren report, what he thought was the most significant exposure made in Mrs. Meagher's book. He answered:

"Mrs. Meagher found 27 errors by the commission in the area of the autopsy alone which occupies only six or seven pages of the report. This is a terrible indictment. It exposes the commission as using intuition to reach conclusions instead of scientific or judicial methods."

Dr. Conor Cruise O'Brien, now professor of humanities at New York University, thought that the book proved beyond doubt that there must be a fresh and unbiased investigation into the death of President Kennedy, "and President Kennedy's two senator brothers, should take the lead in setting it up."

Prisoner Release New Ploy?

By WILLIAM L. RYAN, from Washington

Vietnamese Communist gestures with regard to their American captives illustrate a shift in propaganda emphasis during the last 16 months and suggest that both Hanoi and the Viet Cong are investing hopes in the anti-war movement in the United States.

In July, 1966, after more than a year of air attacks on North Vietnam and heavy use of American air power in the south, Hanoi and Viet Cong propaganda threatened vengeance against captured U.S. crews, even hinting broadly at public war crimes trials.

Now the stress is on humanitarianism. The Viet Cong, for example, has just released three prisoners who, according to Communist sources in Cambodia, will represent the beginning of a "trickle" if the Communists are satisfied with news stories about the three.

The Communists have had little success so far from attempts to make propaganda capital of statements attributed to captive U.S. airmen. The statements attributed to them have been, for the most part, read by others in the prisoners' names, in English-language broadcasts. This leaves the authenticity of the statements open to question.

Sixteen months ago the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong insisted that all captured airmen, as Hanoi put it, "are not prisoners of war and cannot enjoy the provisions of the Geneva Convention on the treatment of prisoners of war." This hinted that captives might be publicly tried and executed.

Citing the trials of Nazi leaders at Nuremberg, Germany, Hanoi said captive Americans could "by no means claim to be free from responsibility as far as criminal law is concerned; neither can they claim to be mere instruments who act only as ordered out of respect for military discipline."

At about the same time, Hanoi broadcast a proposal to the Viet Cong in the south that it "set up a court to try and appropriately punish those American pilots who owe blood debts to our people."

For about a week in that period, Hanoi broadcast alleged depositions of U.S. prisoners condemning the U.S. government and "begging forgiveness." Hanoi reported captives were paraded through the streets amid demonstrations against them.

The "war crimes trial" line was dropped rather abruptly in the summer of 1966 and not used again. For months thereafter the Communists occasionally broadcast names and ranks of captive Americans and, at times, statements attributed to the prisoners.

The release of selected American prisoners instead of threats of reprisals against captives in general could mean the Communists think they might catch more flies with sugar than with vinegar. The tactic could be aimed at giving certain anti-war elements in the United States a sense of accomplishment, and thus hold the promise of building additional pressure against the Johnson administration's war policy.

Johnson Opponent Puzzles Washington McCarthy Nobody's Patsy

McCarthy

"Being in politics is like being a football coach," Sen. Eugene McCarthy, the Minnesota Democrat who is rising to challenge the re-nomination of President Johnson, once said. "You have to be smart enough to understand the game, and dumb enough to think it's important."

No one had ever doubted McCarthy was smart enough. He combines with great personal charm a mind of impressive breadth. He can range from the fine points of a tax bill to the wider realms of philosophic speculation. He is that rare thing in American politics — a Catholic intellectual.

By JOSEPH KRAFT
From Washington

But neither has anybody ever accused Senator McCarthy of being over-serious. He is relaxed to the point of laziness and humorous to the point of cynicism. His challenge to the President, accordingly, has generated a kind of enigma here. Washington is wondering what has suddenly caused Gene McCarthy to exert himself.

The clue, I think, lies in a curious personal trait — a heightened sensitivity to being made "expedient" for others. McCarthy points out that he nominated Hubert Humphrey for vice-president in 1966, and campaigned for him in the 1960 Wisconsin primary.

He feels that in 1964 he was himself lured into contention for the vice-presidency, and allowed to stay in contention long after Johnson had fixed on Humphrey.

The case against Lyndon Johnson, McCarthy believes, is that everything and everybody is expendable to him. "He ruined the Democratic National Committee by taking over the money-raising functions when he was leader of the Senate."

"He used the Supreme Court by making the chief justice chairman of the commission investigating the Kennedy assassination and by sending Arthur Goldberg to the United Nations. Now he's trying to get everybody — the Senate, the cabinet, the United Nations — to carry the can for him on Vietnam."

Vietnam itself is not unimportant to McCarthy. "There are some things," he says, "that are just wrong — where you have to take a stand."

"Vietnam is wrong, too, wrong in a way that is systematic. It's a case of the flag following the troops. You start off with a little aid, then troops, then more troops. Then the whole country is committed without ever being consulted."

Another reason, a reason exemplified by repeated visits to the campuses, is concern for the younger generation. "The kids are getting tired of protesting," McCarthy says. "They need somebody to show that the system can respond to complaints."

But Bobby Kennedy can't be cause opposing Johnson would look like an act of revenge. Most of the other liberal senators have to fight their own re-election campaigns. I have nothing to lose."

Lastly, and in a discreet way, there seems to me a religious element. "What counts," McCarthy once said, "is not what you run for, but what you run away from."

The upshot of all this is that the position McCarthy is now blocking out for himself is no mere piece of opportunism, no freak of the moment. It has a deep, personal and political logic. Senator McCarthy is nobody's patsy. And he is likely to be a formidable candidate.

No Place to Go But Up

LBJ Will Have to Fight To Reverse Poll Trends

By JAMES MARLOW
From Washington

Public opinion polls show President Johnson near the bottom of the barrel. There is no place for him to go but up. To go up he'll have to start fighting, for a change. Much of his time in the White House has been like living in a monastery, he has done so little talking to the people about national problems.

But as a politician, and with the 1968 elections coming up, it can be taken for granted he will try to fight to restore himself in the public mind. How he fights will be one of the most fascinating sights between now and the elections.

It has become a cliché to say his popularity, including both public liking and confidence, would leap up if the Vietnam war suddenly ended. But that would be depending on a miracle, if he waited for that.

Yet public opinion about the president — as expressed in polls — has been neither perceptive nor brilliant. One example is what happened after his two meetings in June with Soviet Premier Alexi Kossygin in Glasboro, N.J. The Louis Harris poll, published two weeks after those meetings, showed Johnson's popularity had shot up to 54 per cent, an 11-per-cent jump compared with a couple of months before.

Time passed, the Vietnam war dragged on, and both the Harris and Gallup polls show now Johnson's standing with the people is at an all-time low. Yet, nothing has changed.

Since the biggest monkey on Johnson's back is, and has been almost from the beginning of his presidency, the Vietnam war, it would seem he would use every device to lighten the load.

One handy device would have been repeated talks to the public on the war, with explanations. Years from now biographers and historians will have a field day trying to explain Johnson's growing reluctance to make such talks.

This is particularly strange since, in private, he talks incessantly and with force.

Johnson has a habit of throwing in bits and pieces on Vietnam in a speech.

But those bits and pieces get lost to view and memory. Recently Johnson has been depending on aides — like Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey and State Secretary Dean Rusk — to answer critics on Vietnam.

The result: The criticism increases.

In short, Johnson will have to perform on his own, in full sight of the public whose approval means so much to his ego and his political future.

Watching him do it, or try to, is what will be fascinating.

Wilson Tries Back Door In New 'Market' Effort

By HAROLD MORRISON
from London

Britain seems to be trying to slip into the European Common Market by the back door. But she likely will find the back door as firmly shut as the front.

There is considerable concern on the Continent about the extent of penetration by big American interests. Large American corporations have either established major branch plants within the Common Market or have purchased local industries.

Prime Minister Wilson's offer of an industrial pool to fight this threat of domination might, under normal circumstances, be well received.

But Wilson tied his offer to Common Market negotiations and as long as the two are linked, continental reaction may remain listless. While five of the six Common Market partners back in Britain's bid for entry, France has used a bagful of tactics to block negotiations.

As long as French opposition continues, Britain is likely to remain in the cold, no matter what Wilson may offer.

French officials maintain Wilson's proposals amount to no more than a "cream puff," masking the most serious weakness in Britain's case — the difficulty to maintain stability in the British pound.

Yet the problem of American penetration remains. Establishing free trade within the six-country orbit seems to have accomplished little to stop the foreign-ownership spread.

Some resentment within the Common Market against the French position is already evident. This resentment may increase as a result of the British issue and French foot-dragging in building the European community into a unified political structure. This idea of a deepening rift has not been lost on Wilson.

Despite economic difficulties, Britain has been able to move ahead in the sophisticated areas of industrial development. Britain's nuclear power program is far more advanced than any on the Continent and is perhaps equal to that of the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

Britain also had made tremendous strides in electronics and computers. These are British-owned industries and their sophisticated state could prove highly attractive to Continental businessmen seeking bigger co-operative ventures.

It only remains for the five to display more energy in convincing the unbending sixth member.

Whooper Count Highest Ever

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whooping cranes, who never really have had to worry about overcrowding, are going to get a bigger winter home.

A straggler arriving at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge in southeast Texas from Canada sent the whooping crane count Tuesday to a record 48.

Interior Secretary Stewart

Udall announced at the same time that the refuge was being enlarged by 7,162 acres through a gift from Mr. and Mrs. J. Meredith Tatton, Texas ranchers.

The first 47 cranes flew into the winter home 11 days ago. The flock is at its largest since the rare birds were threatened with extinction in 1938 when only 14 survivors were known.

OTTAWA (CP) — Raymond Denis' trial on charges of attempting to obstruct justice was adjourned Tuesday when a scheduled witness failed to turn up.

Crown Attorney John Cassells later identified the witness as Rene Tremblay, former immigration minister and Denis' boss three years ago when the offence is alleged to have taken place.

BAIL CHARGE

Mr. Cassells said Mr. Tremblay, Liberal MP for Matapedia-Matane, was absent from the capital in Quebec City.

Denis, a 34-year-old lawyer, was executive assistant to Mr. Tremblay.

He is charged with trying to dissuade Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne from opposing bail for narcotics smuggler Lucien Rivard three years ago. Mr. Lamontagne was representing the United States government in Montreal legal proceedings to extradite Rivard for trial in Texas on narcotics smuggling charges.

PRISON TERM

Mr. Cassells said in his address to the jury that he will bring witnesses to testify that Denis twice relayed a $20,000 offer to Mr. Lamontagne not to oppose bail for Rivard.

Rivard, now 52, is serving a 20-year prison term in Atlanta, Ga., after his conviction on the charges.

In his address, Mr. Cassells said he will show that bail was first refused for Rivard June 19, 1964, after his arrest at the request of U.S. authorities.

The trial began Monday. Denis also is charged with corruptly offering Mr. Lamontagne a sum of money to drop his opposition to bail for Rivard.

In Quebec, Mr. Tremblay said he is available to testify at any time. He had not, however, received any call to appear in court Tuesday, he said.

Salaried Employees

Chrysler Faces New Threat

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union said Tuesday its 8,000 salaried members at Chrysler Corp. will strike the firm at 10 a.m. next Tuesday if no contract is reached for them by then.

The strike deadline was announced a few days after UAW leaders and Chrysler officials signed a three-year pact covering 95,000 production and maintenance workers at Chrysler.

WALKOUTS HURT

Despite the fact the agreement was reached several hours before the original strike deadline last Wednesday midnight, scattered walkouts hobbled Chrysler production for nearly a week.

If a strike begins at 10 a.m. Tuesday in lieu of a contract, only the 8,000 clerical and engineering employees will be on strike, a UAW spokesman said. Chrysler operations, meanwhile, climbed back toward normal Tuesday as workers on walkout returned to their jobs, as both the company and UAW leaders had demanded.

CONTRACT TERMS

The UAW has members among the salaried workers only at Chrysler. The terms of the contract covering the production and maintenance workers amount to more than $1 an hour in wage and benefit gains over the three-year period of the agreement, roughly the same as the union won from Ford Motor Co. The union also won wage parity for Canadian workers.

Negotiations with General Motors, the biggest car-making firm, have been in limbo while the UAW worked at Ford and Chrysler. Talks at GM are expected to begin in earnest later this month.

Police Hit Marijuana Market

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police said Tuesday they believe they have broken the major marijuana distributing ring in the Pacific northwest.

Two weekend raids—one in Vancouver and the second in Seattle—netted a total of 114 pounds of the drug, which police estimate is worth $146,000 on the illicit market.

The first seizure of seven kilograms of marijuana—15 pounds—was made in Vancouver Sunday, and led city police to contact Seattle narcotics experts.

As a result 45 kilograms—99 pounds—were seized in a Seattle motel.

Investigators said the narcotics were destined for illicit markets in B.C. and Washington State.

Police have not released further details.

Gallant Scout To Have Award

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 16-year-old Boy Scout will receive a gallantry award in Ottawa for jumping fully clothed into Fraser River tidal waters last year to save a boy. Governor-General Michener will present the Silver Cross to Douglas James Kinn.

Man Guilty Of Taking Union Funds

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — John Francis Upward, 20, of Campbell River, was given a two-year suspended sentence on $1,000 bond Tuesday for theft by conversion of union funds.

Upward was found guilty of converting $3,000 belonging to the Buttle Lake local of the Mine, Mill and Smeelter Workers' Union for his own use.

He used the money to buy a car that he said he intended to use for union purposes.

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Joseph Zastre, 30, admitted Tuesday to stealing more than $6,000 in funds from the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America while he was the union's business agent.

Magistrate Gordon Johnson remanded Zastre to Monday for sentence after he pleaded guilty to a charge of theft over $50.

Police said he gave himself up at police headquarters two months ago.

Husband at Last Launching:

Canada Losing National Asset

Savage

Savage Seeks Return

Former alderman Clyde Savage announced Tuesday he will again seek another term on city council in the December election.

Mr. Savage served for several terms before being defeated in the mayoralty contest last year by Hugh Stephen. He has been active on convention centre committees and as leader of the Chamber of Commerce civic affairs group.

Saanich Councillor Now in Vancouver

Saanich Coun. Digby Kier has left Victoria, starting work Tuesday as a lawyer in the federal justice department in Vancouver.

The councillor was in the last few weeks of his two-year term on council. Three other councillors—William Campbell, William Noel and Edith Gunning—whose terms expire next month, are seeking re-election Dec. 3.

A. W. Mesher is the only other declared candidate for council.

Saanich Told:

Students Lack Refuse Touch

University students don't make good garbage men, Saanich public works committee learned Tuesday night.

There was a marked increase in complaints on garbage collection during the summer months, development engineer Joseph Barber-Starkey told the committee.

Calls were missed or made late, and garbage collectors talked back to householders and left rude notes, he said.

SUMMER HELP

He explained that garbage contractor Lorne MacNutt earlier blamed the situation on university students who were hired for the summer, and said he would never employ them again.

Coun. Alan Newberry said he had a complaint of his own and a current one. His garbage can cover was left off and the can was not put back in its proper place, he said.

Coun. Edith Gunning said she had received a similar complaint. Committee decided to take up the complaints with Mr. MacNutt.

LETTERS PLANNED

Municipal Engineer N. W. Lyle introduced a letter to be sent to property owners regarding the construction of a four-lane highway on McKenzie Avenue and Simon Road, authorized by the 1965 capital referendum, which is to be started next year.

The letter outlines a choice for property-owners of allowing an assessment of 70 cents a foot frontage each year for 20 years in payment of storm drainage, curbs, gutters and boulevard improvement, or of having construction of a lower standard with open ditches and no sidewalks. A meeting on the subject is to be called for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 27 in the municipal hall.

United Appeal Gifts Climb to $534,029

Donations to the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal amounted to $534,029 at 5 p.m. Tuesday, 89 per cent of its $600,000 goal.

Tuesday's total included an employee contribution from The Bay of $8,052 which together with the $6,000 given by the company makes it the largest gift from one corporation so far in the campaign.

By MARK DICKINSON

Canada is losing a "priceless national asset" by not increasing its shipbuilding program for the Royal Canadian Navy, Victoria Machinery Depot president Harold Husband said Tuesday.

"In Canada, although we are the fourth-largest trading nation in the world, we have no merchant marine and the Royal Canadian Navy is not maintaining an adequate replacement policy for the ships of its fleet," Mr. Husband said.

SOME NUCLEUS

"Without the recognition in Canada that it is necessary to keep up the RCN and to maintain some nucleus of a shipbuilding organization, we are losing a priceless national asset," he added.

Mr. Husband's comments were made moments before Victoria Machinery Depot launched its last ship. (See also Page 13.)

Mr. Husband announced on Oct. 27 he had sold the shipbuilding equipment and stocks of steel and VMD's Dallas Road yard to Burrard Dry Dock Company of Vancouver.

At 12:35 p.m. the 3,000-ton Mv. Doris Yorke, a rail car-trailer ferry, slid down the ways and marked the end of the company's 106-year history as the province's first major shipbuilding firm.

The ferry was christened the Doris Yorke, by Mrs. Gregory Yorke, mother of the president of F. M. Yorke and Sons, owners of the vessel.

Construction of the 320-foot ship began in October, 1966, and it cost about $1,000,000.

25 RAIL CARS

It can accommodate about 25 rail cars and 30 trailer-trucks and will be leased to the Canadian Pacific Railway for runs between Vancouver and Nanaimo.

"The Doris Yorke is the last ship to be launched from these ways," Mr. Husband said.

Canadian and U.S. shipyards, with their high wage scales, are unable to compete in world markets with low-wage countries, he said.

CONTROL OF SEAS

"But the United States recognizes the necessity of maintaining control of the seas, and has continued a large shipbuilding program for the U.S. Navy and the U.S. merchant marine."

"There were three shipyards on the West Coast and there is not enough business for two, and we have arranged a consolidation with Burrard of VMD, to the end that as many as possible of the skilled shipbuilding staffs and other workmen can be kept together for the need that will surely arise in the future."

MORE NEEDED

"But we require more shipbuilding work than is now proposed to keep even the two remaining shipyards operating now."

(The second yard is Yarrows Ltd. in Victoria.)

F. M. Yorke, owner of the new vessel, told launch spectators:

"It is unfortunate about this shipbuilding situation and I think something should be done immediately to encourage more shipbuilding in Canada before we lose it altogether."

145TH SHIP

The Doris Yorke was the 145th ship to be built by VMD. As it slipped into the water, flags fluttered from its bridge and its horn blasted across Victoria's harbor.

Then there was silence and the crowd drifted away.

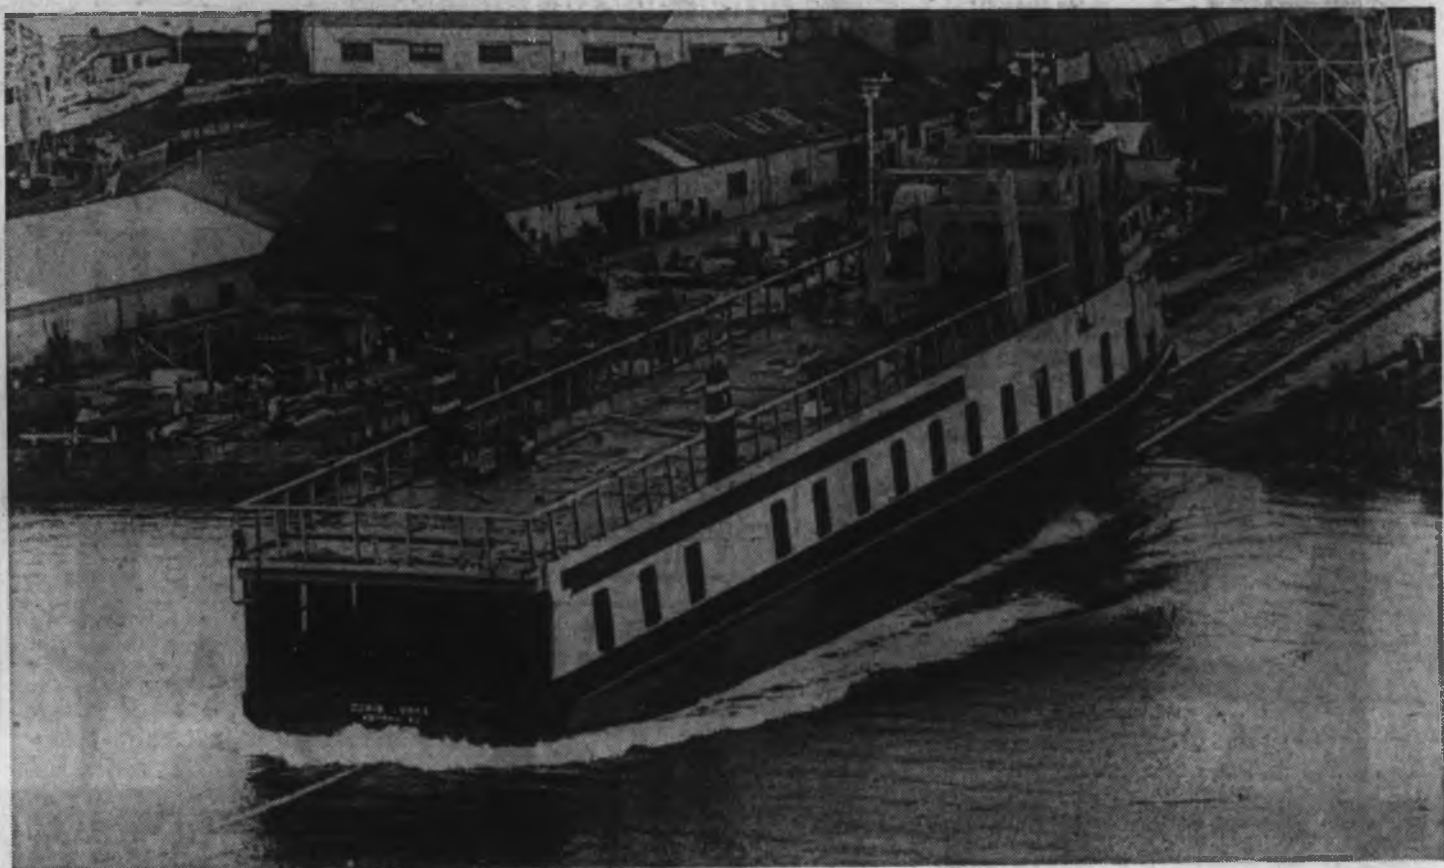

Previous launchings have always been big days, with bands and whistles blowing.

Many of the finest ships in the world have been launched from VMD ways.

JUST A FEW

To mention a few: tankers and freighters which still ply the world's seas; the destroyer escorts Terra Nova and Saskatchewan; 11 of 14 Queens of the B.C. ferry fleet; and the world's largest semi-submersible drill rig, SEDCO 135F.

VMD was founded in May, 1863, by Captain Spratt, and its Dallas Road doors will officially close Jan. 1.

About 100 people attended launching of VMD's last ship

Extradition Hearing

Many Got No Money

By BRIAN DORERTY

Extradition proceedings started in central magistrate's court Tuesday against a middle-aged American wanted by Saanich police to face nine fraud counts involving the abortive Chateau Victoria complex.

The Crown, represented by Lloyd McKenzie and Kenneth Murphy, is attempting to extradite Charles Warren Beeler of San Francisco to face the charges.

Dr. Peter Banks, a specialist in internal medicine, began by testifying to buying $22,800 worth of shares.

Dr. Banks said he had recorded a number of remarks Beeler had made to him and filed them under such headings as "promises," "red herrings," "cross accusations" and "soft soap."

Dr. Banks said he first met Beeler in November, 1962, and was then introduced to the plan to build a retirement home for elderly people near Esquimalt Lagoon.

NOTHING BACK

The idea for elderly people to buy apartments in the complex and then pay a monthly rate for expenses.

Dr. Banks said he never received any of his money back. Capt. William Holmes said he paid $10,000 for two shares after talking with Beeler, and never received anything back.

His wife, who described Beeler as "most persuasive," bought one share for $5,000.

Dr. Robert Peet, a neurologist, said he paid $12,500 for four shares and received nothing back. He never saw anything from a viewing house.

Leonard Glitz said he met Beeler in 1962, when Glitz and his wife managed the Colony Motel.

APARTMENT JOB

Mr. Glitz said he bought one share for $5,000 and was offered the job of selling the apartments in the complex while his wife could work in the office. Beeler told him in December, 1962, 100 apartments were already sold.

Mrs. Glitz said she worked in the office of BHP Investments Co., the parent company of the project, for seven months and was still owed for salary.

MONEY PLAN

"He said there was no problem with money," Mrs. Glitz said. "The financing was already arranged."

Montague Collins said he was operator of Sidney Taxi when he first met Beeler in 1962. His cabs used to take Beeler from Patricia Bay Airport to Beeler's home.

Beeler asked Mr. Collins to sign notes for $20,000, for which he would get four shares and exclusive taxi rights to the chateau.

In June, 1962, Mr. Collins signed a note for $18,000 with 6 per cent interest and handed over a syndicate certificate for $2,000.

NOTES REDRAWN

This and later notes were destroyed and redrawn until in June, 1963, Mr. Collins received a letter from Burrard Mortgage saying the note was held by that company.

Mr. Collins got a loan to pay the note, but finally had to sell out all his interests to pay back the loan. He said he never got anything back from Beeler.

She was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital for treatment. Police identified the driver as Alexander Grant, 1210 Tattersall.

Chateau Victoria

C & C Taxi, said Beeler offered his firm the transportation rights to the complex in the spring of 1963 and, as a result, Mr. Nordal bought a $5,000 share.

Dr. Ralph Shepherd said Beeler told him he was worth "in the neighborhood of $5,000,000." The doctor said he paid $10,000 for two shares after he was told the contracts had been let for the work to begin on the chateau.

William Lee, deputy sheriff, said numerous writs against Beeler and his wife were satisfied when her goods and chattels were seized, but no money was ever received from Beeler personally.

The hearing, before Magistrate William Ostler continues today.

Pollution Move May Close Colwood Centre

By A. H. MURPHY

The metropolitan board of health took steps Tuesday which could result in closure of the Colwood Shopping Plaza for polluting the area.

Senior medical officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread was instructed to seek aid from the provincial Pollution Control Board in having the highways department refuse permission for Colwood Plaza to run its effluent into a drainage ditch.

"He said there was no problem with money," Mrs. Glitz said. "The financing was already arranged."

Montague Collins said he was operator of Sidney Taxi when he first met Beeler in 1962. His cabs used to take Beeler from Patricia Bay Airport to Beeler's home.

Beeler asked Mr. Collins to sign notes for $20,000, for which he would get four shares and exclusive taxi rights to the chateau.

decided to turn the matter over to the Greater Victoria Inter-municipal committee, and the board condemned as dangerous the use of asbestos powder for modelling in kindergartens and elementary schools.

The Colwood plaza has been in the news for more than two years because of effluent which drains from the laundromat into a nearby ditch. The shopping centre, which is owned by Tanikos Yarmon Ltd. of Vancouver, has been the source of numerous complaints to the board of health.

'Why Allow This?'

"It's been banded around for two years. Why should this commercial firm be allowed to inconvenience the people of the district?" asked Coun. Arthur Mebs of Esquimalt.

He said the effluent had filled a nearby ditch where it lay and stunk. From there it was being pumped over a hill and into a small ravine and from thence to a stream which flowed into Esquimalt Lagoon.

"The place is a mess," said Coun. Mebs.

Laurel Benham, provincial sanitary inspector, admitted the situation was odorous but said it now was the responsibility of the pollution board.

However, this was only one part of a bad district condition which extended from the shopping centre plaza right back to Six-Mile House. In that whole stretch septic tanks were draining into the Gorge.

Dr. Whitbread said the effluent was likely viral and infectious.

Moving on to another item on the board of health agenda Dr. Whitbread said the Portage Inlet Gorge Waterway area would be posted with "no swimming" signs in the spring.

Water Dangerous

"The water is dangerously contaminated and it should be remembered there had been an increase in infectious hepatitis in the Gorge district," the doctor said.

The intermunicipal group will be asked to seek legislation allowing a fluoridation vote in the area comprising the Greater Victoria water district.

A somewhat similar request was made to the board of the water district recently and shipped back to the health board with the observation that the water district was in the business of supplying water and not treating it.

Letters will be sent to the principals of kindergartens and elementary schools by Dr. Whitbread, pointing out even short exposures to asbestos powder could produce diseases of the lungs. It was said to be a precursor to epithelioma.

In reply to a question Dr. Whitbread said that even when the powder was moistened for modelling the fumes and fibres could be harmful to children.

Antique Instruments Make Racket Here

Antique instruments like, from left, the crumhorn played by Christine Mather, a reboe in the hands of Harold Vogt and a racket demonstrated by Paul Palmer were heard at the University of Victoria Tuesday night in a concert by the touring Manitoba Consort group.

The program, aimed at the specialist and music historian, also included virginals by Douglas Bodie, French and Handel songs by Phyllis Thomson, and Peggie Samson playing the viol da gamba.—(William E. John)

THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST

November 15, 1867

A married woman residing in Victoria district, appeared before Mr. Pemberton yesterday to answer to a summons charging her with spitting in the face of a neighbor. The magistrate placed the woman under light bonds not to repeat the assault.

It is feared several persons from this colony for England together with the mails that left here on the 25th September last were on board the Southampton mail packet when she went down off St. Thomas.

The U.S. Steamer Ossipee, Capt. Emmoes, which left Sitka on the 3rd November, arrived in Esquimalt harbor yesterday noon. The Ossipee has on board Gen. Rousseau, U.S.A. and staff and will remain here some days. The steamship John L. Stephens, Capt. C. C. Dall, from Alaska via Nanaimo, with 1,300 tons of coal aboard, also arrived yesterday, and will sail today at noon, for San Francisco.

Church Needs Outside Structures

Canon Criticizes Tradition

By MARK DICKINSON

Tradition is crippling the church so that it can no longer remain the centre of society and culture, according to Canon Hilary Butler of Christ Church Cathedral.

"The form of society in which the church developed no longer exists and will never recur," said Canon Butler.

"Up to a point it is possible to reform and revitalize the existing internal structures of the religious institutions. But these internal structures are no longer adequate to the mission to which the Holy Spirit is calling Christ's followers today," he added.

MAIN SPEAKER

Canon Butler made the comments in a 40-minute prepared statement to a meeting of representatives of the Victoria Council of Churches Monday night in Queen's House of Studies, 2494 Arbutus.

He was main speaker at the meeting of about 30 church representatives who attended.

Canon Butler urged that new religious structures be formed outside the church.

"Some of these new structures may become continuing institutions; others may be formed to cope with specific needs or crisis in human affairs," he said.

"But we must expect that they will not normally consist of members of any one denomination, nor even solely of Christians."

He said the "credibility of the Gospel" depends now on what is done by Christians outside the Church.

'JUST WONDERFUL'

Rev. Robert Morris of the First United Church said Canon Butler's comments "are criticisms of the Church structures as hippies have criticisms of today's society."

"I think it's just wonderful," he added.

"How can we best prepare?" In an age of rapid change the our people for meaningful par-Church is, unfortunately, almost ticipation in a new mission inas much crippled as aided by its this changing world — to swing history. We must learn to successive different social and cultural situations."

Chairman of the meeting was Bishop Remi J. De Roo. But he added: "The day of the organized church is not over. Ross Bay Cemetery

Dog Ban Passed

Dogs on leash or running at large were banned from Ross Bay Cemetery Tuesday by order of the city council parks committee.

Just how they will be kept out of the area, large parts of which are unfenced, was not explained but city council will be asked to ratify the committee decision and impose the prohibition.

The discussion and decision followed a complaint from R. H. B. Ker who telephoned to City Hall to say markers in the cemetery were being fouled by dogs. If owners were so insensitive, said Mr. Ker, perhaps there should be a ruling to keep all dogs out of the cemetery.

"Just how are you going to keep dogs out when there are no fences, no security?" asked Ald. Ian Stewart.

"Well we could put up signs," said Ald. Robert Baird, parks committee chairman.

BYLAW NEEDED

"That's fine but what if the dogs can't read," replied another alderman.

Mayor Hugh Stephen didn't think people should be allowed to walk their dogs in the DA NANG (AP) — An epidemic of bubonic plague has struck a fishing village on the outskirts of Da Nang, killing six Vietnamese civilians and sending 25 others to hospital. U.S. Navy doctors vaccinated 6,000 civilians, and officials believe they have checked the disease.

Meter Check After 5:30

Beginning Thursday commissioners will check on cars parked at downtown meters until 6 p.m.

Normally there are no further checks on meters after 5:15 or 5:30 p.m. but to free more parking spaces for Christmas shopping it was decided to enforce the parking bylaw to the letter.

The decision was made primarily to assist merchants, said David Campbell, city traffic chief Tuesday. The whole idea was to get more turnover in the downtown shopping areas.

A number of other special controls including left-turn bans and making View a one-way street will be announced later in the week. They will apply only to the Christmas season.

Deputy Attorney-General

Guaranteed Income Glimpsed in Future

Dr. Gilbert Kennedy, B.C.'s deputy attorney-general, peered into his crystal ball Monday for a glimpse of future Canadian law.

He told an audience of about 150 at the University of Victoria that he foresees:

- A guaranteed annual income and an end to collective bargaining;
- Lowering of the legal retirement and marriage ages;
- Raising of the ages at which minors may get a driver's licence and leave school;
- Controls on pollution and "severe controls on waste."

Dr. Kennedy, the son of a law professor and a former university lecturer himself, spoke on a century of Canadian law as part of the University Extension Association's winter lecture series.

LOT OF TIME

Compensation for accident injuries, regardless of blame, is on the way, he suggested. The precedent has been set by workmen's compensation laws, Dr. Kennedy noted.

"We now spend a lot of time determining blame before the victim is compensated," he said.

Dr. Kennedy also predicted a

uniform scale of compensation for varying disabilities. Controls on automobiles are also coming, he said.

"I'm wondering how long it will be until we legislate out of existence the automobile in its present form."

TOO MUCH WORK

Jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of Canada will be curtailed, he guessed. The court now has more work than it can handle, said the deputy, observing that it takes three years to bring a case before the court.

He forecast a reduction in the number of minor offences dealt with in the courts.

"Find other remedies," he suggested. "The stature of the courts will increase from reduction of the clutter."

Dr. Kennedy emphasized that he was speaking personally.

NO KNOWLEDGE

"I have no knowledge of the plans of any cabinet minister," he grumbled.

He was mildly critical of the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada which gave offshore mineral rights to the federal government.

"They went out of their way to find reasons why B.C. was not the owner," he said. "They did not advance many reasons why Canada is the owner."

Launching of Last Vessel Includes Salvo at Ottawa

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

The last ship to be launched by Victoria Machinery Depot slid down the ways at Dallas Road Tuesday and gave its president Harry Husband a platform from which to launch a valedictory broadside on the Ottawa policy which has brought the famous yard to its sad conclusion.

The occasion was the launching of the Doris Yorke, which will do duty for F. M. Yorke and sons as a rail car and truck ferry between the mainland and Vancouver Island.

Mr. Husband said it was the federal government's policy which had forced the Dallas Road yard to close.

It was impossible for west coast yards to succeed in competitive bidding with the Quebec St. Lawrence yards where wages were $1 an hour less and steel and components are available on the spot, said Mr. Husband.

"Of the $300,000,000 in new ships for the federal government to be called for bid over the next three years, not one ship is slated for bid on the west coast only," he added.

Mr. Husband then turned his attention to the defence department. "The Royal Canadian Navy is not maintaining an adequate replacement policy for the ships of its fleet."

He emphasized how vital a matter this could be in time of conflict.

"The United States could not sustain its position in Vietnam for 30 days without control of the seas."

"We are losing a priceless national asset" said the outgoing shipbuilder.

EVEN KICKER SCORNE

The Government of Canada offered what looked like its best bond bargain Tuesday when it put on the market $250,000,000 six-year bonds with a coupon of 6 1/2 per cent at $9.50 to yield 6.35.

In addition it added the kicker of giving the holders an option to convert into long term at any time in the next five years.

Despite this the bonds were said to be selling slowly, with "very little bank purchasing."

A bond market expert said that while the bonds looked excellent, climate for bonds was wrong.

"There are far too many offerings clouding the market," he said.

Nine-month earnings of Canadian Pacific Investments, whose new convertible preferred shares were sold publicly recently, were $28,289,000, compared with $31,443,000 in the corresponding period of 1966.

In the same period CPR, which controls CPI, reported its net railway earnings at $28,639,000, compared with $35,733,000 a year ago.

The net income of CPR and CPI for the nine-month period was $3.38 a share, against $4.54 a year ago.

Appeal Rejected

Court Upholds Westbank Windup

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba Court of Appeal Tuesday rejected an appeal by Toronto financier Sinclair Stevens which would have blocked the Bank of Western Canada from proceeding with winding up its affairs.

The court's decision was unanimous and costs were assessed against Stevens and three other Toronto shareholders.

Charles Husband, counsel for Stevens, said he had no instructions to carry the case further.

BANK'S RIGHT

Mr. Justice R. G. B. Dickson said he is of the opinion that since 1887, a solvent bank has had the right to wind up its affairs voluntarily, subject to approval of the courts.

At the same time, he said, a stay of proceedings against winding up—authorized by Mr. Justice R. D. Goy in Court of Queen's Bench—has expired and the bank could proceed with winding up.

JUDGE CORRECT

The appeal had been spearheaded by Stevens as president of Canadian Finance and Investments Ltd. of Winnipeg with counsel for CFI arguing that only an act of Parliament could wind up a solvent bank.

But the written decision of the three-man appeal court, given by Mr. Justice Dixon, said:

"I am of the opinion that since 1887 it has been open to a solvent Canadian bank to wind up voluntarily with court approval."

"It follows that the learned judge was correct in the conclusion he reached that the Court of Queen's Bench had jurisdiction to entertain the petition of the Bank of Western Canada, a solvent bank, to wind up voluntarily."

Shareholders voted Sept. 14 to wind up the bank, which never opened its doors because of a series of policy clashes at the top, but liquidation had been delayed by a series of court actions.

Shortly before the appeal court judgment was given, CFI, Stevens and Edmonton businessman John L. Bodie served notice of a planned attempt to have shareholders reverse their decision to wind up.

Their announcement, published as a newspaper advertisement, said CFI intends to introduce a motion at the bank's annual meeting, scheduled for Dec. 13 in Winnipeg, to have the Sept. 14 resolution to wind up declared null and void.

Further, the motion would seek to have the bank's board of directors instructed to take no further action on the previous resolution except to undo any action that might already have been taken toward liquidation.

However, when the bank directors decided last Friday to call the annual meeting for Dec. 13, they said they would cancel it if the court of appeal ruled before that time in favor of the winding up.

Strike-Surrender Plan Bared by Steelworkers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The leadership of the United Steelworkers union is considering a plan to surrender its right to strike in the 1968 contract talks with the basic steel industry.

I. W. Abel, president of the union, is pictured as the chief architect of the plan.

Abel has been a critic of the growing role of the government in important labor disputes in recent years, fearful that unionism is losing its independence.

With the war on in Vietnam, Abel feels the government would quickly declare an emergency and step into the 1968 talks if a stalemate developed.

During the last few weeks, union and company representatives have discussed a no-strike binding arbitration plan, but made no public announcements.

R. Conrad Cooper, the steel industry's top negotiator, announced the proposal publicly Monday for the first time.

Cooper said company and union representatives have worked out an experimental negotiating procedure for the 1968 negotiations to avoid strikes, lockouts and government intervention.

He said its acceptance hinges on quick approval by the union's approving bodies, including a poll of the membership, and by the 11 major steel companies involved in the negotiations.

Sharp Confident

Welcome Mat Out For U.S. Money

NEW YORK (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said Tuesday Canada will continue to need and to welcome American investment, and reassured New York financiers of his country's political stability and efforts to return to good economic health.

Speaking of his plans to increase taxes and cut the rate of growth in government spending, Sharp told the Economic Club at a black-tie Waldorf-Astoria hotel banquet:

"This is going to be painful, particularly at a time of moderately increased unemployment. It is essential, however, if we are to accomplish our objectives and check the inflationary rise in prices before it does lasting damage to our economy."

He told the bankers and industrialists that Quebec separatism is a subject that has been debated in Canada for two centuries, and that French-speaking Canadians, "while still concerned to maintain their cultural identity, are also determined to achieve economic progress and to participate fully in the direction and control of Canadian development."

CONTROL POLICY

A text of his speech was released in advance of delivery.

The Canadian government will soon make public a policy statement on the control of Canadian industry by foreign capital, the result of a cabinet committee study headed by Privy Council President Walter Gordon. But Sharp said there will be no unfair discriminatory treatment of American investment.

"We are going to continue to need foreign capital and the know-how that so often comes with it," he said. "We will welcome such capital and will avoid unfair discriminatory treatment which would create the kind of atmosphere that discourages foreign investment."

Wholesale Index Goes Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's general wholesale index climbed four-tenths of a point in October to 265.1 from 264.7, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday.

Textile products, non-ferrous metals and iron were a point to two points higher. Fractional increases occurred in the vegetable products, wood products, chemical products and non-metallic minerals indexes.

Both animal and iron products were unchanged.

Brazilian Soccer Clubs Vie for Witch Doctor

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—Nautico's resident witch doctor wants to retire from soccer but rival clubs are bidding for his services.

And if Edu, the black magician behind Nautico's state championship, decides to stay in sports, he can triple his pay just by signing on the dotted line.

The clubs bidding for his services are Esporte and Santa Cruz, each offering a monthly salary of $180 plus bonuses. Nautico has been paying Edu $57 monthly.

Recife soccer teams traditionally have relied on witch doctors to help them out.

Santa Cruz hopes Edu will join the team when his unwritten contract with Nautico runs out at the end of the season, bringing his bottles, powders, herbs, candles and talismans to its clubhouse.

But Edu says being a resident witch doctor for Nautico has been "a bitter experience," and he wants to go back to more conventional magic.

Nautico's manager Duque isn't worried.

His own contract with Nautico also runs out at the end of the season.

But, in the meantime, he's taking no chances and follows one of Edu's more bizarre pieces of advice—he always wears a red sock on the left foot and a white one on the right when Nautico plays.

Hull Pulls Away In Scoring Race

MONTREAL (CP)—Bobby Hull, Chicago Black Hawks' left winger, continued his goal-scoring pace in the National Hockey League last week and leads the individual scoring race.

Hull, who needs only 16 goals to reach the 400-goal mark, has 21 points on 14 goals and seven assists in 14 games played to date.

Statistics issued by NHL headquarters Tuesday give Hull a three-point lead over veteran Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings perennial all-star. Howe has scored 10 times and added eight assists for 18 points.

Yvan Cournoyer, Montreal Canadiens' right winger with the left-hand shot, is third in the race with seven goals, 10 assists and 17 points. Jean Ratelle (4-12-16) of New York Rangers is one point behind Cournoyer.

Veteran Andy Bathgate, now with Pittsburgh Penguins and Bill Hicke of Oakland Seals, both in the expanded Western Division, follow with 15 points.

Both have scored eight goals and assisted on seven.

Hull is the goal-scoring leader with his 14, while Alex Delvecchio, Detroit's veteran captain and centre, is the assist leader with 13.

Bernie Parent, who went from Boston Bruins to Philadelphia Flyers in last June's expansion draft, has become virtually unbeatable in recent games.

The Montreal native allowed only three goals last week as the Flyers stretched their undefeated streak to four games.

Since shared scoring honors for their first two games, the goal-tending duo of Parent and Doug Favell have moved the Flyers from last to a second-place tie in the Western Division with a combined goals-against total of 25—a 2.08 goals-against average.

Veteran Johnny Bower and Bruce Gamble of Toronto Maple Leafs are second in netminding with an average of 2.27.

Hornets Grab Colonist Cup As Spot Kicks Decide Issue

By DOUG YEARWOOD

Victoria — goalkeeper Kjeld Brodsgaard, who takes the Tyees penalty kicks, missed from the spot for the first time this season Tuesday and Mount View Hornets won the Colonist Cup and the Greater Victoria high school soccer championship, through a 3-2 overtime victory at Topaz Park.

Brodsgaard's miss climaxed the most hectic finish of the season, a finish which saw the Hornets take a 2-1 lead in the last minute of regulation time and the Tyees tie it so close to time that there really wasn't time for the kickoff.

With the Island final scheduled here on Friday, team officials decided that the game would be decided on penalty kicks.

Dennis Sommer of Mount View was the first to try from the spot, and he drove the ball past Brodsgaard into the lower left corner.

Brodsgaard, who was four for four from the spot in league play, then booted the ball over the crossbar and the Hornets regained the trophy they had won previously in 1960.

Tyees probably lost the championship in the first half, when they were unable to score more than one goal while holding a big territorial edge.

COME ON STRONG
Hornets came on strong for most of the second half as the Tyees' 3-2-3 formation was unable to contain the Mount View forwards.

Sommer scored the tying goal about ten minutes into the second half as Mount View speed began to give them the edge.

Bill Walker scored what appeared to be the winning goal for the Hornets with about a minute left as the Mount View leftwinger dribbled around Brodsgaard and kicked the ball into the lower right corner.

With less than a minute to play the Tyees came storming back. Graham Taylor went charging down the left wing and crossed the ball to Stu Wallace, who blasted the ball at Graham Lee.

Lee, who was fouled after the whistle was blown, caught the drive but stepped back over the line to give Tyees the tying score and set up the overtime exchange of spot kicks.

In the early stages of the game, the Hornets pressed hard as Mark Robb carried the ball deep into the Tyees zone but could only manage a soft shot on Brodsgaard after being partially stopped by Rick Baldwin.

After about 10 minutes, Tyees took over the play and Dean Stokes crossed the ball to Wallace, who drove it wide of the Hornet net.

Play remained in the Hornet end until the eventual goal by Steve Carroll, who had one goal nullified earlier on an off-side call.

MADE NO MISTAKE
Glen Robinson set Carroll up with a great pass from the outside and the 17th centre-forward made no mistake in booting the ball past Lee.

Tyees weakened in the second half and had only one really effective drive on the Hornet goal other than the last-second score by Wallace.

It came as Ken Kulak dribbled down the left wing and centred the ball to Robinson, who blasted a drive at Lee.

After the tying Hornet goal, play was mainly in the Tyees end. Walker had two chances for goals before his last minute.

LENGHTON, Ky. (AP)—Twili, a 3-year-old Swans mare in foal to Kentucky Derby winner Northern Dancer, brought the top price of $60,000 Tuesday afternoon at the Keeneland fall sale of bloodstock.

The mare, out of Quill, was bought from Dr. H. N. Davis acting as agent for R. N. Webster by J. Howard King for his Shaker Heights farm.

In all, the afternoon session saw 119 head sold for $630,000, an average of $5,301. After the first three sessions, a total of 251 horses had been auctioned for $2,291,000.

Wolman said a turnaround by three creditors could force him into court for a reorganization. Then, he said, it would take three to five years for anyone to get a dime, and in the end they would receive less than two cents on the dollar. Under his proposal, he would pay two per cent now and the balance within 18 months.

A report accountants prepared for Wolman listed his total assets at $92,182,946 and liabilities at $85,321,440. He said he sent the report to his creditors, asking them to wait for their money.

effort, once when he took a second half. Once as Sommer crossed pass from Sommer and blasted it past the Tyees net, and later on a play with Robb and Sommer when he again shot wide.

Hornets also had two other good chances to score late in the second half. Once as Sommer drove down the left wing and passed the ball to Robb, who couldn't get it under control and didn't get his shot away. Then Walker crossed, the ball to Sommer who couldn't quite reach it before it crossed the line.

consecutive draw with Victoria Tyees, the 1966 winners.

However, in the opinion of the three veteran officials who handled the game, the conduct of Mount View student fans took away much of the glory.

"I have never in all my soccer experience witnessed such deplorable conduct as that exhibited by Mount View students this afternoon," said linesman Tom Westwater, the one official who was not involved in the decision which brought Victoria the tying goal in the final five seconds of regulation time and which precipitated an immediate mob scene.

OFFICIAL RULING
The tying goal was awarded on what would have been the last play of the game after Mount View goalkeeper Graham Lee had pulled down a drive by Stu Wallace and officials ruled that Lee had brought the ball across the goal-line.

Westwater, a halfback for Victoria O'Keefes of the Pacific Coast Soccer League, who played many years of soccer in Scotland from high school to professional before coming to Canada, was agast at the demonstration which followed the ruling that Tyees had tied the game at 2-2.

FOULED AFTER GOAL
"After the goalkeeper (Lee) had pulled the ball down there was a big scramble in front of the goal and the Mount View goalkeeper was fouled," Westwater said. "However, linesman Eric Remes had signalled the goal before the foul was committed and a referee (Jack) Adams correctly backed the call made by his linesman."

"As soon as it happened, Mount View student fans surrounded myself and referee Adams. He was jostled, sworn at and insulted in the most revolting language and even threatened. It was nauseating."

LONG EXPERIENCE
Remes, whose soccer background includes six years as a player (goalkeeper) in Austria, four years as president of Hourigan Kickers and two years as manager-coach of Drake Kickers of the Victoria District League and four years as a referee during which he had refereed PCSL games and most of the high school games for the past three years, was just as distraught about yesterday's demonstration at Topaz Park.

"I signalled the goal," he said. "I offered my services as a linesman and if you see it as a goal you have to call it a goal. I was in a good position to see the play and the goalkeeper brought the ball over the line. I signalled and when the referee asked me if it was a goal I said that it was."

PUSHED AND CURSED
"What happened after that was a disgrace. They were shouting us around and the language was horrible. I was honestly scared for a while. There was no protection for the officials and I didn't know what was going to happen."

Adams, a veteran who has officiated Victoria soccer games for many years, said he thought the demonstration by Mount View students was "quite disgraceful."

"What happened was that the keeper in making the save fell back and brought the ball over the line. He was fouled after that but it was already a goal and the play was dead. Remes was right on the line where he should be and was able to see the play perfectly."

"I was surrounded, and I would say they were all students, and jostled and called names. It was quite a disgraceful performance by the student fans, but what disappointed me the most was the lack of teachers, or people in authority, to control the students and prevent this kind of conduct."

Fans Can Accompany O'Keefes to Mainland

Victoria O'Keefes will probably be without veteran full-back Dave Stothard on Saturday when they seek a share of the Pacific Coast Soccer League lead at Vancouver's Callister Park.

Stothard, expected to be out of town because of the illness of a sister, will probably be replaced by Russ Ball for the match against University of British Columbia Thunderbirds. Another expected change will be a starting assignment for newcomer Dick Joyce at centre-forward.

O'Keefes, now 2-2 in what is shaping up as the best PCSL race in many years, hope to have a number of supporters with them for their second go at the Birds.

The Victoria team will leave Saturday morning by chartered bus and return on the 5 p.m. ferry from the Mainland. Total cost for fans, including admission charge, will be $7. Reservations may be made by telephoning Ron Southern, 334-6098.

Power-Play Goals Win for Totems

Cleland Morrison drove the clincher into an empty net four seconds from time with the Roadrunners on a six-man attack.

PHOENIX — Two third-period power-play goals by Bill Dineen carried Seattle Totems to a 4-2 win over Phoenix Roadrunners Tuesday night and boosted Totem's Western Hockey League to seven points.

Trailing, 1-2, after a scoreless second period, Totems tied it when Dineen blasted a 30-foot slap-shot home at 8:25, won it when their industrious forward picked up a loose puck behind the Phoenix defence and went in close before making his second scoring shot.

Chualo Registers Bare-Knuckle Draw

TORONTO (CP)—Heavyweight George Chualo tangled with Bob (Pretty Boy) Feistlin in an unscheduled bout Monday at the Lansdowne Athletic Club.

Chualo, dressed only in his underwear, and Feistlin, fully clad and wearing a raincoat, fought a bare-knuckle draw.

The 29-year-old Chualo said the trouble started when Feistlin "started to press me about a fight."

Chualo required an operation after suffering a serious eye injury against Joe Frazier last July. He began training again only last week.

Chualo said Feistlin suggested he was "washed up in the ring." That's when the fight started. Other boxers and trainers separated the pair.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

Apart from the barring of all unorthodox putting methods, the most controversial of the 1967 golf regulations may be the change in the amateur status requirement that no prize may exceed $100 in value.

This is a reduction of 50 per cent from the present maximum of $200 value which amateurs may accept as prizes for any one competition.

The tightening of the regulation was approved by the Royal and Ancient, the U.S. Golf Association last May, and later by the Royal Canadian Golf Association to come into effect Jan. 1.

The U.S., which sponsored the change, felt that the $200 level was too high and was encouraging the type of amateur competition which was not in the best interests of the game. Presumably they were out to discourage pothunters.

But while $100 may appear to be an adequate prize for anyone who plays golf as a sports-loving amateur, it also tends to further the gap between amateur and professional play and removes for some young amateurs the incentive to get to the top without crossing the slimy line.

For the ordinary club golfer who makes no pretence about his ability and is content to perform in purely local competitions, the drop from $200 to $100 means little.

On the other hand, the low-handicap amateur who hopes to get to the top of the amateur ranks, participation in provincial, state, regional or national competitions is essential if he is to make progress.

In a country like Canada, where golfers may have to travel over 3,000 miles to participate in the Canadian amateur, the only passport, except for the wealthy, is to win a place on the Willingdon Cup team, in which case the province will pay the fare and part of the expenses.

For all others, the Canadian Amateur, or any other amateur competition, for that matter, carries no subsidy.

But even before the player can get on a Willingdon Cup team he has to play in the provincial championship, and perhaps other qualifying tests as well, all of which consume pocket money and valuable holiday time.

While this is perhaps less true of smaller countries than Canada and where there are great concentrations of golfers all playing within a small area, the fact remains that the way of the amateur golfer in Canada who wants to get to the top is hard, if not impossible, for all but a small minority.

It is not to be suggested that the drop of the prize ceiling from $200 to $100 will make any great difference to the situation, but it is a factor, and it emphasizes the fact that golf has the strictest amateur requirements of any sport.

Some opponents of the new regulation say it will merely force a lot of promising young amateurs into the professional ranks, where they will probably be of little account.

John Morgan and Earl Davies of Royal Colwood got another shot at the city open buttons as a result of a halved match against holders Bill Wakeham and Gordon Jones of Gorge Vale at Colwood last Sunday.

Morgan and Davies were three up at the 11th, after winning the second, third, 10th and 11th holes and losing the ninth. Gorge Vale got one back at the 12th and then Wakeham birdied the 14th and 15th to square the match. The 17th was halved in birdie and the 18th in par.

Replay is in two weeks' time at Colwood.

Ron McLeod, holding a four-stroke lead as a result of his 66 at Uplands last month, goes into the second round of the fall district medal on his own course at Oak Bay Sunday.

His nearest rival is Alastair Fulton of Gorge Vale with 70. Next come Bill Wakeham of Gorge and Earl Davies of Colwood with 71s. At 73 are Vaughan Trapp of Victoria, Frank Scroggs and Al Brown of Uplands, and Len Palmer and Gordon Jones of Gorge Vale.

Nominator Resigns In Protest

HAMILTON (CP)—Percy Allen, sports director of radio station CHML, resigned Tuesday as a nominator of Canada's outstanding football players.

He said his resignation was prompted by the "completely unjustified" selection of Ed McQuarries of Saskatchewan Roughriders instead of John Barrow of Hamilton Tiger-Cats as the outstanding lineman.

Western players won all three 1967 awards, announced Monday. Players are nominated by sports broadcasters and newspaper sports writers.

Allen said in a broadcast that he feels western nominators vote a straight western ticket almost every year.

He suggested that selection of award winners be turned over to the nine Canadian Football League coaches.

Claremont Harriers Score Win

Claremont won the girls' cross-country run Tuesday at Mt. Douglas, needing only 10 points to the 19 for Mt. Douglas on the reversal scoring.

Chris Pearson from Claremont led the girls around the 1.6 mile route in 11 minutes and one second, just 10 seconds ahead of the lone Victoria High runner, Wendy Thompson.

Ann Longdale was the first runner across the line for Mt. Douglas, finishing third, ahead of the next three Claremont harriers, Mona MacMillan, Elizabeth Lax and Karen Bellavance.

Sound Shot?

The silly season started for hunters at the weekend with the opening of antlerless season when too many hunters shoot at anything that moves. But silliest hunter of them all was the one who riddled the huge tires of Longland Bros. logging company grader in Leechtown at the weekend. Tireman Roger Windle points to bullet hole in one of two tires that were shot at. Gasoline hose was also turned on and left running. "Then hunters wonder why loggers are wary of public access," said partner Ed Longland.

Sentiment for Expansion Exists in National League

CHICAGO (CP)—Montreal and Toronto have applied for franchises in the National Baseball League at a time when there is "sentiment for expansion," league president Warren Giles said Monday night.

In an interview after an informal league meeting, Giles said he had received bids from the two Canadian cities as well as from Buffalo, Milwaukee, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Diego and Denver.

Giles did not say who made the Canadian bids and emphasized the meeting was called only to discuss the possibility of expansion—any new franchises would come later. But he did remark: "I would say there is sentiment for expansion."

"We will have a joint meeting on Nov. 30 in Mexico City. The next day the National League will meet on its own, and expansion again will be discussed."

"I do know that there will be no franchises granted at Mexico City if we do decide to expand because we cannot move that fast."

CHIEFS AL PLANS
 Later, the National League rapped the rival American League for allegedly breaking the rules and discussing baseball expansion plans of its own.

Giles chided the American League for what he called a violation of rules but said the National League will not contest the junior circuit's expansion to Seattle.

Last month, the American League shifted the Athletics' franchise from Kansas City to Oakland and then expanded to 12 teams by awarding franchises to Seattle and Kansas City.

Late Rallies Shatter Rawlings
 VANCOUVER—Victoria Rawlings dropped a pair of heart-breaking decisions to University of British Columbia Thunderettes over the weekend, bowing 51-49 and 39-38 to late surges by the winners.

Rawlings led 42-34 with three minutes left on Saturday but Thunderettes caught them in regulation time and won it in overtime.

The Victoria club led by 14 points at 38-24 with five minutes left Sunday but failed to score another point and again bowed to an effective zone press by Thunderettes.

The double win moved Thunderettes into sole possession of first place with six points while Mount Pleasant Legion and Victoria have four each. Vancouver Mols are winless in three starts.

SEATTLE (AP)—Despite his team being inactive last week, San Diego's Fred Hiltz had enough margin to retain the individual scoring lead in the Western Hockey League.

Hiltz' 19 points stood despite four-point outputs by Bill Saunders and Art Jones of Portland that moved them to a second-place tie with 16 points each.

Saunders' nine goals is high for the league. Following, with seven goals each, are Phil Maloney of Vancouver, Dick Van Impe of Portland and Lou Jankowski of Phoenix.

Nicklaus by Landslide

Golfer of Year

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Masters titles, two U.S. Open championships, the PGA championship, the British Open and 24 official PGA tournaments.

He took the Masters in 1965 and 1966 to become the only player to score back-to-back victories.

The award was announced at the annual meeting of the Professional Golfers' Association.

TO HALL OF FAME

The occasion also marked the induction of Wee Bobby Cruikshank as the 38th member of golf's hall of fame.

Nicklaus, who teamed with Palmer last week to win the World Cup matches at Mexico City, beat Palmer by better than 2-1 in the balling by PGA members and golf writers.

Don January, 1966 PGA champion was a remote third among 32 players drawing votes.

Nicklaus, youngest player to win the Masters, the PGA championship and the U.S. Open, has already smashed all money-winning records on the 1967 tour.

HAR WON $214,320

His official earnings for the year—in tournaments sanctioned by the PGA—stand at $188,998, surpassing his own mark of $140,752 set in 1965. He has amassed an additional $72,568 in unofficial tournaments and the World Series of Golf.

His official total since he turned pro in 1961 places him second behind Palmer on the lifetime money-winning list—and Palmer was a pro when Nicklaus was a high school sophomore. Winning six major titles this year, Nicklaus moved ahead of Billy Casper, another veteran.

CASPER HIGHER IN '66
 Casper, playing in five more tournaments, edged him out for the top spot last year.

The '68 better idea cars are rolling. Come on in!

Cougar • Falcon

Let your Mercury dealer show you why our better idea cars — are even better in '68. Try out better Ideas like our two-way station wagon tailgate — It opens down for cargo, out like a door for people. Or the better Idea power brake option — order power brakes and you automatically get power front disc brakes. Or try our Select-Shift transmission that lets you shift manually or drive automatically. And take a look at the complete Mercury lineup for '68... the cars with the fine car touch of Lincoln Continental.

Check out Cougar; pound for pound and dollar for dollar the best equipped luxury sports car in North America. And, in the tracks of the hot selling Cougar, Montego... Mercury's new young sized, young priced action car. And test drive one of the '68 Meteors and you'll see why we say "Move with the Meteor people"... because Meteor people have discovered that Meteor is really the Mercury at the standard car price. The '68 Falcon is there too, the compact car for the big, wide country.

Stop at a Mercury showroom... one of the great new '68 better idea cars has your name (and your price tag) on it.

Newest Draw At Old Forge

Singer-dancer Toni Sinclair liked her Canadian holiday so much she decided to settle in Vancouver. She makes her debut here Thursday with shows at the Old Forge. Miss Sinclair, who is from Brighton, England, will appear at 11 p.m. and 1:15 a.m. weekdays and 9:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. Saturdays. She started her career at age four and has since progressed to roles opposite Anthony Newley with Jayne Mansfield. Miss Sinclair has completed a 14-week series with CBC's Music Hop and had a dramatic role in the Bride Ship.

Peterson Meets Students

The president and vice-president of the University of Victoria's Alma Mater Society talked with Education Minister Leslie Peterson for an hour Friday, and one said afterward, "I think it did both him and us some good."

The meeting came after complaints from members of the university's student council that the B.C. government appeared too busy to speak with students.

Plunge Kills Playboy

ATLANTA (UPI) — A free-spending young man who ran up a $1,000 tab while posing as the son of an Indian prince plunged 18 storeys to his death Tuesday from Atlanta's Regency-Hyatt house, a futuristic hotel with "glass bubble" elevators that climb to dizzying heights.

Police said the death of Deepak Jesudian, 26, probably would go into the record as a suicide, but hotel officials said they learned the victim had been sitting on the railing of his balcony several times in the past few days and "may have fallen."

Jesudian plunged from his $100-a-day suite on the 20th floor and landed on the ballroom roof at the second-storey level.

Sgt. John Cameron, an investigator for the Fulton County medical examiner's office, said a formal ruling would be made this morning and that it would be suicide. He said the edge of the balcony was protected by a 4 1/2-foot high wall, and added: "I don't think any reasonable or rational man would be sitting on a railing 20 storeys up."

Hotel officials said Jesudian checked into the 22-storey hotel at 3:16 p.m. Nov. 7, and that they became suspicious of his free-spending habits late last week and spoke to him about his bill.

They said they attempted to check some bank references he gave them, but because of Veteran's Day and the weekend most offices were closed, and they were unable to get any line on him until Tuesday.

Rather than being the son of an Indian prince, they said, he was the son of an Indian soldier stationed in Bombay. His mother lives in Toronto and was en route to Atlanta Tuesday afternoon.

Few persons in the swank hotel were aware of the incident since Jesudian plunged from a window facing a side street, rather than into the open lobby in which the "glass bubble" elevators climb

Old Profession Has New Worry

BOSTON (UPI) — American society today is so promiscuous it is driving prostitutes out of business, according to an official of the state department of health.

Dr. Nicholas J. Flumara said Monday, "we are driving prostitutes out of business not because of increased fervor and police activity, but due to the attitude of 'why pay for something when you can get it for nothing?"

The director of the state division of communicable and venereal diseases made the remark in a speech at the 17th annual conference of the National Association of Citizens Crime Commissioners.

Flumara said divorces, venereal disease and illegitimate births are increasing rapidly. The venereal disease rate has risen 240 per cent in the last nine years, he said.

Death Delayed In California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — before or hereafter entered by the Superior Courts of this state in all cases involving other defendants is hereby stayed."

The blanket proceedings affect 60 men on Death Row at San Quentin Prison.

The court announced last week that it would hold hearings early next year in all death penalty cases involving constitutional issues.

The action was taken in blanket cases originally filed in U.S. District Court.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert F. Peckham had ordered the condemned men to exhaust remedies in state courts.

Tuesday, the State Supreme Court issued a brief opinion saying:

"Pending final determination in this court of the above entitled proceedings, the execution of all judgments of death here-

More Federal Workers Hurt

OTTAWA (CP) — There were 20,331 injuries to federal employees on the job, seven of them fatal, during the 1966-67 fiscal year, the federal labor department reports.

Compensation, medical and hospital services total was about $5,000,000, up $400,000 or 8.7 per cent from 1965-66 when there were 575 less injuries recorded.

The woman, who was not identified, told authorities she was in the bathroom and when she came out she noticed the drapes and the sliding door leading to the balcony were open.

She said she walked out and looked down and saw Jesudian's body on the roof below.

Some Wage Discussions Should Be Open—Baird

Discussion of wages for highly-paid City Hall department heads should be open to the public in the opinion of Ald. Robert Baird who announced Tuesday that he will seek re-election.

The alderman's declaration came following an in-camera meeting Monday to discuss pay increases for department heads. Among the increases considered was one which would raise the salary of the city manager from $20,000 a year to $22,500.

OPEN MEETING

At least two other increases were discussed. Ald. Baird said that he and one other member of city council voted against all three of them.

The increases will be made known and ratified at an open meeting of city council.

"I think we should give increases where they are warranted, but on a sensible percentage level and not such massive boosts," said Ald. Baird.

"And these take place at a time of dangerous inflation. It used to be that you would take a pocketful of money to the store and come home with a basketful of food. Now it's just the other way around," the alderman added.

"I'm not at all happy with the way things are going at City Hall," continued Ald. Baird. "The city manager is always calling in outside help to do jobs he should be doing himself. With the salary he's getting he should be able to make these decisions and save the city money."

Mayor Hugh Stephen was staunch in his defence of City Manager Dennis Young who, he said, was one of the best in the country.

"He brings to his job great professional skills which are reflected in the way the city is run," the mayor said.

NO CRITICISM

He added that he had no criticism of the manager for calling in outside help when it was needed.

"I learned long ago, as any businessman worth his salt has learned, that expert advice is a bargain at any price," the mayor said.

He also observed that outside help was never called in without the knowledge and consent of city council.

Licensed Poison Still Strikes At Victorians

Pest poisons which cannot be sold without the purchaser's signature are still getting into the stomachs and lungs of Victorians.

Sixth Term

Fred Graham, 1246 Acton Street, has been re-elected to sixth term as B.C. chairman of American Power Boat Association. He is presently attending week-long annual association meeting at St. Petersburg, Fla.

who were retching from rodenticides and bug killers. The emergency ward, which is the poison control centre for Vancouver Island, also answered telephone calls from five people who had breathed apple tree sprays or had an insecticide on their skin.

All of the compounds were of such potency that they had to be signed for when they were bought.

Provincial regulations, which went into effect last year, require purchasers of the most dangerous insecticides and pesticides to sign for the products.

The compounds also can be sold only by licensed salesmen who have graduated from courses sponsored by the British Columbia Department of Agriculture.

The department has licensed 650 stores in the province to sell such chemicals and has certified 613 salesmen, a spokesman said Tuesday.

The major effect of the regulations was removal of the poisons from stores where they could contaminate food. The spokesman said the regulations, which have been in force for about a year and a half, at first annoyed some merchants, but they have since been found more acceptable.

North Saanich Told

Change of Library Would Boost Cost

North Saanich would pay more for book services if it quit the Vancouver Island Regional Library and joined the Greater Victoria Library.

This was claimed in a report made to North Saanich council Monday night by Coun. Neil North on the advantages and disadvantages of joining the public library.

Council requested the report after it received notice from the regional library that it proposed to change the method of assessing library costs.

The report said that under the new formula, North Saanich library budget would rise from $7,654 to $9,427.

Coun. North said if North Saanich joined the public library it would cost an additional $1 per capita.

She said council would have to submit a referendum to ratepayers on the matter if the change was to be made.

Also Monday night, North Saanich council was asked to enforce a noise nuisance bylaw against a company preparing a CPR parking lot at Swartz Bay.

In a letter to council, R. N. Spencer of 2220 Dolphin Road charged Oliver Construction used heavy equipment on Sunday night, Nov. 5, in direct violation of a municipal noise nuisance bylaw.

The company is preparing a lot for a new CPR freight wharf to be constructed east of the B.C. Ferries terminal.

As a result of the noise, Mr. Spencer said, his family got no sleep that night and most of the next morning.

Reeve J. B. Cumming explained that the company has not been working at night since the complaint was lodged, and council will notify Mr. Spencer that the bylaw will be enforced by RCMP if any more noise is created at night.

Council approved in principle a request by the Deep Cove Chalet to establish a sewage treatment plant to serve the restaurant and adjacent properties.

Final approval on the plan to discharge treated effluent in Deep Cove waters depends on the Pollution Control Board.

Hit-Run Car Dark Green

Saanich police are still seeking a late-model car believed to be involved in a hit-and-run accident on Gorge near Earl Grey Saturday afternoon.

William Ellison, 3980 Earl Grey, suffered a fractured leg when he was struck by a car while waiting at a bus stop. He is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Analysis from the dark green paint left on a telephone pole led Saanich police identification section to determine the make and model of the car. The car is believed to have damage to the right headlight and fender and possibly along the right side to the door.

It's Salmon-Viewing Time

Thousands of Greater Victorians line the banks of Goldstream on weekends to watch salmon struggle and splash their way up the swift-flowing, rock-studded stream to their spawning grounds. Left, Victoria naturalist Freeman King holds salmon that was speared by Indians while it was en route to spawn in the upper reaches of Goldstream. Fish-watching has become an annual event and Solarium's junior league members sell refreshments from mobile canteen to chilled fish-watchers as one method of raising funds for Solarium's crippled children. —(Jim Ryan)

Record $1,620 Realized At MS Golden Key Fete

Perky Santas, snowmen and other festive figures created by Victoria artist, Emily Sartain, added a gay Christmas touch to the bazaar held by Victoria Multiple Sclerosis Golden Key in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall.

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett officiated at the opening of the popular affair. She was introduced by Mrs. K. C. Gilbert, auxiliary president. Mr. W. H. Phillips, president of the Vancouver Island Multiple Sclerosis Society, gave a talk.

A surprise came when Mr. W. Hollick officially presented a wheelchair, to be used for transportation of patients in the Cosmo bus.

Mrs. Hilda Price and Mrs. Betty Miller convoked the bazaar which netted a record $1,620 for patients' assistance.

Receiving guests were Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Catherine Laurie, Mrs. O. H. Lamont and Mrs. Harry Hicks.

Presiding at the head table were Mrs. K. Briggs, Mrs. A. Young, Mrs. W. Champion, Mrs. W. L. Morgan and Mrs. J. K. Wyman.

Mrs. J. Hagel, Mrs. J. Bishop, Mrs. D. Mulcahy, Mrs. Gwen Graham, Mrs. Lola Richards, Mrs. T. B. Waddington and members of the Cosmo Pals acted as serveurs.

The group's treasurer, Miss Alice Dougan and Mrs. T. B. Curran were in charge of receipts.

Mrs. F. Hammond and Mrs. W. Hollick convoked the well-patronized home baking stall. Mrs. Betty Miller and Mrs. Marjorie Eaton were in charge of candy and jam sales.

Other stall conveners were: Aprons and sewing, Mrs. M. Moran and Mrs. Eva Hasey; knitted items, Mrs. R. Hodgson and Mrs. Elsie Aiken; dolls, Mrs. C. Bacon; Christmas gifts, Mrs. D. Stewart and Mrs. Archie Willis; plants and flowers, Mrs. Phyllis Stains and Mrs. W. H. Pennock, and superfluties, Miss Bess McGillivray and Mrs. Lil Hutton.

Mrs. M. C. Scotchford assumed the role of Lady-with-a-Hundred-Pockets and the raffles were arranged by Mrs. Elsie Aiken and Mrs. Bell Norton.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Goodwin and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pennock decorated hall.

In kitchen were Mrs. Jessie Champion, Mrs. Velma Acres and volunteers from the Women of the Moose.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: You told Prudence it would take her less time to turn her husband's socks and undershirts and shorts rightside out than it took to write the letter to you complaining about it. Well — time this:

One husband and five boys equal 84 socks per week, 42 undershirts, 42 pairs of shorts, and I'm not counting pyjamas, sweatshirts and jerseys.

From the day we married my husband has managed to drop his clothes in the hamper wrongside out. I reminded him about it several times. He'd remember for a day or two and then slip back into his old ways. Finally I gave up.

Now I'm having the same problem with my sons. The youngest is 8 and the oldest is 16. They gloated when they showed me the column where you said in effect, "Shut up, Mom, and continue to pamper the slob."

Give my regards to your laundress, you traitor.—MAD AT YOU.

Dear Mad At Me: Don't put words in my mouth, Lady. I didn't say, "Shut up, Mom, and continue to pamper the slob." I said, "It takes less time to turn your husband's socks and shorts than to nag him about it."

Your husband came to you trained (or untrained) by his mother but it's your job to do better by your future daughters-in-law than your husband's mother did by you. Insist that your sons do as they're told and don't take any lip.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 15-year-old girl. My mother has been married four times and is in love again. You wouldn't believe the collection of creeps that have walked through her life.

Now she claims I am the cause for all her unhappiness because Eddie has told her the reason he can't marry her is because I don't like him. He is right about my not liking him but I have a hunch he wouldn't marry her no matter what because he is not the marrying kind.

Last night Mom asked me to take my choice of girl's schools because she is sure if I leave town Eddie will marry her.

I wouldn't mind going to a girl's school. It might be fun.

Kurtz-Hollefreund

California Honeymoon

Baskets filled with gold and yellow chrysanthemums sprinkled with wheat decorated the Apostolic Church of Pentecost when Miss Karen Kathleen Helen Hollefreund was united in marriage with Mr. Allen Edward Kurtz.

Rev. A. McLean, assisted by Rev. H. Jones, performed the candlelight ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Allan Hollefreund, 585 Peio Place and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kurtz, 3488 Lovat.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her full length gown of Chantilly lace styled with lily point sleeves and jewel neckline. Her sleeveless coat of ligoda crepe had a back panel of lace flowing into a full train. Her four tiered scalloped veil misted from a crown of crystal and she carried a white bible topped with a mauve orchid and heather.

Miss Eunice Swanton was maid of honor, Misses Gloria Hollefreund and Barbara Campbell, bridesmaids and Carol Simcoe, flower girl.

The senior attendants wore gowns of Empire style gold corded linen with chiffon overskirts. A linen train fell from the shoulders.

The flower girl was in mauve floral dress. All had bouquets of large and small bronze chrysanthemums with green flax leaves and their floral headpieces were of button chrysanthemums.

Ring bearer was Rodney Kurtz.

Mr. Mervin Kurtz was best man for his brother and showing guests to the pews were brothers of the bride, Mr. Vic, Mr. Clint and Mr. Kurt Hollefreund.

A reception was held at the Red Lion Motor Inn where the bride's table was centred with the wedding cake decorated with yellow roses. Rev. George Swanton proposed the toast.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kurtz

Leaving on honeymoon to California the bride wore coral two piece suit, alligator accessories and white orchid corsage. On return they will reside in the Casa-Del Mar Apartments.

The bride's grandmothers, Mrs. C. Hayes came from Halifax and Mrs. E. Quint from New Westminster.

Complexion Beauty

The secret of beautifying the complexion is said to lie in the saturation of the skin with a new type of tropical moist oil. The skin takes on an immediate healthy bloom as the tiny lines and blemishes are gently smoothed away. This saturation treatment with the moist oil of Olay is recommended by skin care consultants, who advise its daily use as a powder base to give the complexion day-long beauty. Your druggist will help you to obtain a supply for your personal needs.

Pure pleasure . . . bright, bubbly Calona Cracking Wines.

3 very superior wines to add an extra measure of pleasure to every special occasion.

You'll appreciate the champagne quality of Calona Cracking Wines... they're vinted exactly the same as champagne for extra fine flavor, life, and appearance.

Start with our suggested uses, but be sure to try all three, and then decide for yourself when you like each the best.

Cracking Rosé	A delightful medium dry, full-bodied pink wine. Particularly enjoyable with meals but suitable and proper at any time and for any occasion.
Cracking Burgundy	A lively fully dry, full-bodied red wine. Specially appreciated with roasts, steaks, game, and for special occasions. Serve well chilled.
Cracking White	A fine medium sweet, full-bodied white wine. Light and bright in the Italian Spumante tradition. An outstanding oyster wine for entertaining. Serve well chilled.

Calona Cracking Wines are best, and most fun, when served in champagne type stemmed glasses. Store in a cool, dry place, out of direct sunlight, upright or on the side.

Why are the bubbles so fine?
The bubbles in Calona Cracking Wines are nature's own bubbles, the result of the wholly natural process by which Calona Cracking Wines are produced.

Centenarian Quits Driving But What About His Car?

KINGMAN, Kan. — Nicholas Hobson says he has decided to quit driving "because I'm getting too old." He will be 100 Nov. 30. Hobson said, however, that he has not decided whether to sell his 1966 model automobile. Hobson had some difficulty making himself understood over the telephone and was asked whether there was anyone who might speak for him. He has a son, he said, but "he's on the sick list and shouldn't talk."

NEW YORK — Society band leader Meyer Davis, 74, was attacked by two men and robbed of $500 near Times Square.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Singing star Julie Andrews has filed suit for divorce from stage designer Tony Walton. Married

In May, 1959, they have been kept apart by divergent careers for four years. They have a five-year-old daughter. For more than a year, film director Blake Edwards has been Miss Andrews' frequent escort.

CHICAGO — A fourth grader sent to the cloakroom for punishment was found dead 30 minutes later, hanging from a coat hook by his shirt collar.

Policeman Henry Hoffenkamp who investigated the incident said the hanging of 9-year-old Jesus Martinez was apparently accidental.

VANCOUVER — Murdered Vancouver businessman Fred Erick Dietrich left an estate valued at nearly $1,000,000, according to his will filed here for probate. Mr. Dietrich, 51, was killed in his office Aug. 15 by a gunman. His brother, Jack William Dietrich, 48, of Burnaby, has been charged with capital murder.

NEW WESTMINSTER — Danny Rowland, 22, was remanded for sentence after being found guilty of criminal negligence in a car crash last August that killed three people. Rowland pleaded guilty. He was charged after a 90-mile-an-hour police chase ended with the fatal crash in Burnaby.

LIEGE, Belgium — Count Domenico Agusta of Italy sent a message of congratulation to his daughter Giovanna on the occasion of the birth of her daughter. The message did not mention her husband, Jose Germano, the Brazilian Negro soccer player she married against her parents' will last June.

Perjury Case Remanded

A 40-year-old man was remanded without plea when he was charged in central magistrate's court Tuesday with committing perjury during the 1943 preliminary hearing of a murder charge.

Frank Hulbert, also known as Frank Pepler, of Port Alberni was remanded to Nov. 21 to elect his method of trial. He was represented by Jack Gatehouse. Hulbert is charged with giving evidence at the preliminary hearing of William Mitchell — charged with the slaying of Molly Justice — knowing the evidence to be false. Mitchell was eventually acquitted of the charge.

Hulbert was elevated from juvenile court Monday afternoon. He appeared there first because in 1943 he was a juvenile and had to be treated as one in spite of his present age.

Two youths were acquitted by Magistrate William Oster of possession of marijuana. Verne Green, 20, of 536 Johnson and Alfons Hughes, 19, of Lake Cowichan were charged with having the drug in their possession Oct. 11. Robert Price appeared for the defence.

Court was told last week of police officers finding some marijuana hidden in a shed at the rear of 1519 Amelia. The two accused were painting the house and used the shed to hold their equipment.

Magistrate Oster, delivering his judgment, said the weakness in the Crown case was evidence that there was an opening in the rear of the shed of which police witnesses seemed unaware. The magistrate said the drugs could have been in the shed before the two accused began painting Oct. 10.

Margaret Dunlop, 3950 Cedar Hill, was fined $100 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident on Cook Street Oct. 11.

Wilfred Thibault, 82 San Jose, was fined $50 for being a minor in possession of alcohol.

Fined for careless driving: Tony Dewald, 921 Pandora, $35; Edwin Mar, 527 Burnside, $35; William Hicks of Calgary, $75, licence suspended.

How to Stretch Furlough to 18 Months

He Was Just Following His Orders

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — PFC Joe Allen Smith, 23, the American soldier who stretched a 30-day furlough into an 18-month "absence," remained trapped in army red tape Tuesday awaiting a hoped-for honorable discharge. "I just followed my orders," he told a news conference. Smith, without a smile or a twinkle in his brown eyes, said he was an hour late for the news conference because of a scheduled physical examination and he had to go back for part of his uniform. He underwent a psychiatric examination Monday and still must complete the physical so reports can be forwarded to Sixth Army headquarters where his case was expected to be decided later this week.

Smith was given a 30-day furlough from Fort Hood, Tex., in September, 1965, after serving a training period since June of that year when he was drafted.

"But I received a telegram from Fort Hood cancelling my port call orders and was told to await further orders," he said. "I waited until November when the furlough was up, and called Fort Hood. I was told again to wait."

But no orders came, Smith said. During the long wait, Smith, who lives in Brownsville, Calif., got a job logging. He earned $130 a week while his wife, Glenda Fay, 23, drew about $92 monthly allowance from the army. In June this year, Smith noted that his two-year "hitch" was up.

"So I put on my uniform and got my papers together and went to army headquarters in Oakland," he said. "I gave my papers to the sergeant there and said I wanted my discharge. The sergeant told me to 'sit down.'"

Finally, Smith said, he was called into a lieutenant's office.

"The officer sat there with my papers and I told him I wanted my discharge. He looked up at me and said, 'You've got to be kidding. Don't you know we have a war going on? Don't you watch television?'"

"Yes, sir," I told him, but I still expected to be discharged. I didn't expect any trouble. I said I knew it was not the usual thing, but I was just following my orders."

U.S. Grand Jury

Nelson Man Indicted For Avoiding Draft

PORTLAND (AP) — Four Oregon young men, all of whom have left this country, are under federal grand jury indictment on a charge of failing to report for military induction.

One of the four, Gary Raymond Miller, 20, of Woodburn, is a disc jockey with a radio station in Nelson, B.C.

HE'S HAPPY

He said he had planned for years to go to Canada, first when a student in Serra Catholic High School, before Vietnam was a serious issue. He said in a telephone interview Tuesday that when his draft board notified him a year ago to appear for induction he decided it was time to leave if he ever hoped to get to Canada. So he did. He said he expected to be come a Canadian citizen and when he does he hopes to run for public office. "I am happy in this country," he said.

But he added that he knew he could never return to the United States, a situation that worries him. "If one of my parents died," he said, "or if some emergency arose, I could not return. That's pretty hard to take."

THE OTHERS

The others indicted with him were Michael David Johnson, 23, registered in La Grande, believed to be in Europe; Edward Phillip Brandt, 20, registered in Beaverton, believed to be in Canada; and Clayton James Gaudin, 21, registered in Vancouver City and now in Vanderhoof, B.C.

Girl Nailed To Tree In Gang Row

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — An attractive, red-haired teenage girl, who told police a harrowing story of being nailed by her hands to a tree for disobeying a motorcycle gang, was placed in protective custody Tuesday after receiving threatening telephone calls.

Palm Beach County Sheriff William Heidman said Christine Deese, 18, received threatening calls after naming five men as her assailants.

Two of the men were arrested Monday night at a "pot party" at which six others were picked up on charges of possession of marijuana.

One of the six, John P. Luke II, was one of the members of The Outlaws Motorcycle Club convicted in December of 1965 in the fatal shooting of an 11-year-old Puerto Rican girl in a labor camp. Luke is appealing his five-year sentence and is free on bond.

Charged in the alleged "crucifixion" of tall, attractive Miss Deese were Frank Edward Link, 25, who listed Cypress, Calif., as his address, and James Edward Owings, 25, also known as Norman Edward Rinsinger, of Tampa. Link was charged with aggravated assault and possession of narcotics and Owings with aggravated assault.

Both appeared in court Tuesday and bonds of $10,000 for Link and $5,000 for Owings were continued. A hearing for them was scheduled Nov. 27.

Heidman said she was nailed to a tree limb Friday night. Her case was discovered Sunday when she went to a hospital for treatment of the wounds in her hands.

She told doctors she fell on a nail studded board, the sheriff said, but the doctors noted the identical holes "and this seemed pretty remote."

Under questioning, the girl finally told her story to officers, Heidman said.

He said she was nailed to a tree branch as punishment "for not behaving. She withheld $10 from members of the club. She didn't obey the rules."

The sheriff said that first she was "hit on the head with a beer bottle about five times to make her obey," and then was nailed to the tree limb.

Heidman said the motorcycle gang members pulled out the nails "after 15 minutes." He said the members of the gang included "drifters from Ohio, Tennessee, Illinois and California."

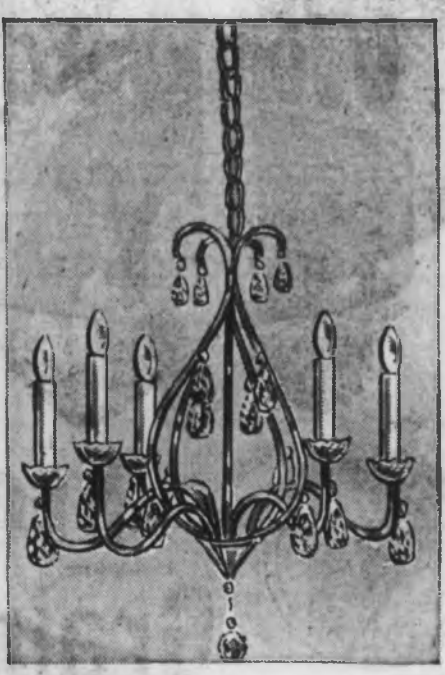

Two of them, the sheriff said, were wearing the nails around their necks as "decorations."

Garden Notes

To Rotivate or Not?

By M. V. CHESNUT

One question occupying the minds of a lot of gardeners in this day and age is whether rotary cultivation is a good or bad thing for the garden.

Certainly it is the quickest and most labor-saving way of working up a piece of ground for planting or sowing, but is it good?

Several experimental stations, both on this continent and in Europe, have set up long-term tests, comparing the results with the traditional use of the spade or plow, and their findings are most interesting.

The action of the rotary cultivator is to pulverize the soil and charge it with air, rather like beating eggs in a bowl. It also chops up the roots of perennial weeds, leaving the pieces just below the surface where each bit can start into growth again.

This is one black mark against rotary cultivation: if perennial weeds are present—particularly couch grass—they will build up very rapidly when cultivation is infrequent, say, once a year.

On the other hand, these fleshy-rooted, persistent weeds can be cleaned out completely by three rotary cultivations, starting in the spring and repeated every time the weeds show green. Of course, the plot cannot be cropped during this period.

The lesson here is quite clear: Perennial weeds must be eradicated first, either by frequent rotary cultivations or by chemicals.

There is some evidence to indicate that annual weeds are worse after rotary cultivation too. This is due in part to the fact that the weed seeds in the soil are retained near the surface and not buried deeply, as in digging or plowing.

Another reason is that the well-pulverized and aerated soil induces rapid and vigorous germination of weed seeds, just as it does the seeds of cultivated crops.

Annual weeds, however, are no serious problem, for the between-row alleys must be hoed or cultivated anyway, and whether there are 10 weeds or 10,000, the work is the same.

It has been noted that vegetable crops and flowering plants show a better response to farmyard manure after rotary cultivation than when it is dug in.

This is probably due to the fact that the manure is mixed more thoroughly and intimately with the soil rather than lying in lumps, and it is held closer to the surface, where the plant roots can get at it.

At one time it was thought that plant roots could be "coaxed" into the deep layers of soil by burying manure just beyond their reach, rather like hanging a carrot in front of a donkey's nose.

It is known now that roots are not "attracted" anywhere—they search blindly for nutrients and moisture, stopping to exploit any deposits of rich fare encountered.

It follows, then, that when manure or compost is mixed thinly and thoroughly through the soil, the roots tend to branch out and ramify more, making a bigger and more efficient root system.

Two items on the debit side are a tendency for the soil to form a "pan" or hard, impervious layer six or eight inches below the surface, just under the depth of rotary cultivation, and an inclination for the finely pulverized soil to puddle when wet and form a crust upon drying.

The first effect develops only after the soil has been rotary cultivated, always to the same depth, over a long period of time, and is prevented simply by digging or plowing deeply every second or third year.

The second effect—puddling—develops only when the soil is deficient in humus, and for this reason, bulky organic manures should always go hand in hand with rotary cultivation.

ART BUCHWALD Offers Sound Advice

So Much for Poor People

WASHINGTON—Some of my best friends are poor. The other day I ran into Slaterry, who was nursing a beer in the corner saloon.

"How's it going, Slaterry?" I asked him.

"Pretty bad," Slaterry said sadly. "This hasn't been a good year for poor people."

"I didn't think any year was good for poor people."

"Oh, we had a couple of good years there when everyone was worried about poor people and everyone talked about winning the war on poverty and helping people pull themselves up by their bootstraps. But I knew it wouldn't last."

"You just can't seem to sustain interest in poor people over the long run. I read somewhere that the attention span to poor people's problems in Congress was exactly 84 seconds."

"Of course, I don't blame them. They have a lot more things to think about, such as elections and crime in the streets and how much cotton is coming in from Hong Kong. Besides, poor people can't contribute too much to a candidate's campaign, so why should he give them too much time?"

"I think you're exaggerating, Slaterry. Why, every congressman I've spoken to says he's interested in poor people."

"Yeah, that's why when they gave a raise to all federal employees, they specifically excluded people who worked for the poverty program."

"I'm sure there was nothing personal in that, Slaterry. Congress probably felt that people who worked for the poverty program could get along on less money because they knew how poor people lived."

"Don't forget, Congress had to cut somewhere and what better place than in poverty? You wouldn't want them to cut the oil depletion allowances, would you?"

"Of course not," Slaterry said. "I'm not a fanatic about these things. But I can't help thinking that if the poor people had a rich lobby they would have gotten all the poverty money they wanted."

"I'm surprised at you, Slaterry, for thinking such evil thoughts. Congress never bows to vested interests. I can't recall a single case where a congressman has been influenced by a strong lobby. What kind of representatives do you think we have?"

"I guess you're right," Slaterry admitted. "Perhaps they have made life difficult for us because they just don't like us."

"Now that makes more sense. Nobody likes poor people, Slaterry. They give people guilt feelings, and frankly, poverty gives the country a bad name. Congress probably feels that by strangling the poverty program this year, they won't have to face up to the problem next year. This would certainly simplify everybody's life."

"Except mine."

"You never look at the big picture, do you, Slaterry?" "Poor people never do," he said, still nursing the same beer. I guess that's our hang-up."

"I have an idea, Slaterry, though it may seem like a wild one. Why don't poor people start making missiles for defense?"

"What the heck for?" "Well, once you start making missiles, you could change your name to the Office of Economic Defence, and Congress would give you twice as much money as you need."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Two Months Wasted

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Statuesque Julie Newmar was in a state of shock when she called to tell me that her Monsieur Le Coq film with Zero Mostel had been closed down after two months of filming in London. "They're going to revamp the whole thing," said Julie, almost in tears. "They're going to change the director and change some of the story." (It was written by Zero, who feels like zero with strange turn of events.) Julie has rented an apartment in London for six months so she'll stick around and see what turns up. The Carl Foreman film for Columbia is not going to be thrown out, just parts of it redone but when that will be, Julie did not know. "They said two weeks," she told me doubtfully, "but there was a rumor it might not be until next spring." From Zero, "They woke me up in the middle of the night and gave me the news." They used to say you can't count on anything in films until the camera starts turning. Now you can't count on it until the camera stops turning.

Not only are the young of London wearing Bonnie and Clyde clothes of the 30s, but now the fashionable young men are wearing Clyde holsters under their arm. The Warren Beatty picture is the biggest hit in England since The Mouse Trap, which is in its 15th year. It's even bigger in Britain than in the U.S. where it is a smash in spite of the New York reviewer who hated it.

The sequel to Born Free is running into trouble and they are not sure that Virginia McKenna and Bill Travers wish to repeat their roles. Up the ante and try again boys.

Lord Brabourne, who is Earl Mountbatten's film-producer son-in-law, said quietly as he sat down next to me at the Up the Junction showing in the Twickenham studio, "Will someone help get my finger free?" It was crushed in the chair. Talk of British stoicism!

Nick Ray will go to Greece for his horse opera, now in the planning stage for February. Nick lives in Madrid where his neighbor is Ava Gardner—when she isn't in London at the flat she took over from the late Robert Buark.

Broadway producer Robert Fryer has decided to film all of The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie in Edinburgh where it all takes place in a girls' school. The film should make an international star of Maggie Smith.

Teachers to Be Pitied

SYDNEY HARRIS

I have read many thousands of words on the subject lately, and I still can't understand why some people think it's "wrong" for teachers to go on strike.

Teachers are not really a professional class, although they and we often like to pretend so. They are simply hired brains, laborers of the mind, and earn less on the average than a bricklayer or carpenter in our society.

The money might not matter so much if they had true status, as they do in Europe. But here, for the most, a teacher is regarded as a kind of upper servant, as a dropout from "real life," as someone who has relinquished the possibility of success and settled for tenure.

Moreover, if teaching were truly regarded as a profession, the better teachers would be able to get higher pay and perquisites. But a teacher's salary bears no intrinsic relation to his personal merit, only to the degrees he has dutifully accumulated and the years of experience he has had—even if the degrees are meaningless, and the experience has taught him nothing but assiduous timidity.

If we really cared to turn teachers into a professional class, our schools of education would not be nearly at the bottom of the rank in academic standing, and the profession would begin to recruit some of the best brains entering college, not most of the mediocre.

And the only way to attract these brains is higher pay, plus a real respect for our educational needs. Higher salary alone will not do it; nobody enters teaching for the money in it, which is why teachers have to be pretty disgruntled and desperate before they go on strike.

But we have little respect for our educational needs. We want our children to slide through school and enter a "good" college—not to be educated, but to get a degree, which is merely a work-permit for the higher type of occupation.

The diploma itself is important, not what it should stand for—and we would much rather have a bad teacher pass Johnny than a good teacher flunk him.

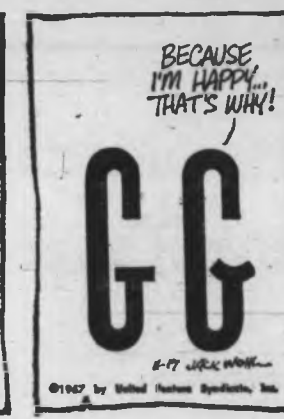

When we know what a teacher ought to be, when we understand what a sound education consists of, when we are willing to pay the price for works of the mind rather than gymnasiums and field-houses then teachers will get the tools, and the attitudes, and the rewards required to educate young people properly.

And, then, a teacher who goes on strike will be an absurdity, rather than a reproach.

Death Penalty Bill Favored by Turner

OTTAWA (CP) — Registrar-General Turner, who refused to vote for total abolition of the death penalty for murder last year, told the Commons Tuesday he accepts the compromise bill now before the House.

It would restrict capital punishment to the murderers of working policemen or prison guards during a five-year trial period.

Mr. Turner said he believes this bill would have passed in 1966 and is confident it will win acceptance in a free vote on second reading.

PEARSON TO SPEAK

Prime Minister Pearson is expected to enter the debate before the vote.

Mr. Turner was the 11th speaker to support the bill since the debate on second reading began last Thursday. Another six MPs have spoken against it.

The supporters included five Liberals, four Conservatives and two NDP members.

Four Conservatives, a Creditist and Social Credit member voiced opposition.

Turner said there is a basic emotional conflict facing everyone who contemplated the measure.

The same conflict appeared in questions of divorce and abortion.

The majority of Canadians probably would support retention of the death penalty. But he felt the bill was a compromise that could be accepted. He hoped the bill would stimulate reform of criminal law and advances in penology. Canada wasn't in the vanguard in these areas.

A sweeping review of the entire field of law enforcement was needed; judges should be trained for their duties, rehabilitation had to be made effective, the penal system had to be made contemporary.

The Turner speech followed two by Auguste Choquette (L-Quebec), a retentionist who has changed his mind, and Martine Asselin (PC-Quebec), another who hasn't.

END HYPOCRISY

Choquette said the bill should be adopted if only to remove hypocrisy from the law. There was no use having the statute on the books if the cabinet followed a policy of commuting all death sentences.

A system of compensation for the families of murder victims should also be adopted. They were the forgotten ones every time the issue of capital punishment arose.

Despicable Attempt—Churchill

Veterans Duel in House

OTTAWA (CP) — Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) charged External Affairs Minister Martin in the Commons Tuesday with a "despicable attempt to attack my reputation" after he said he demanded withdrawal of Mr. Martin's use of the word "forged" in an exchange between the two parliamentary veterans.

Mr. Churchill said the word echoed an earlier Commons battle in 1965, when he attempted to introduce a letter which he said bore the signature of W. Walton Butterworth, U.S. ambassador to Canada.

Mr. Churchill argued at the time that Mr. Butterworth had actively assisted the Liberals in the 1963 election campaign.

Mr. Martin's use of the word Tuesday arose after he was questioned by Mr. Churchill about a Toronto speech Monday in which the minister said no nation has the right to interfere in the matters of other countries except under the auspices of the United Nations.

TAKES EXCEPTION

Mr. Churchill asked whether this implied criticism of Australia, New Zealand or the United States.

Mr. Martin took exception to the question, saying no one was a "greater master of distortion and confusion" than Mr. Churchill.

The Winnipeg member demanded a retraction. He was sure Mr. Martin, the dean of the House, would want to spare himself a "grievous error" and apologize for imputing motives to another member.

Mr. Martin said he did not want to impute any motives.

ANOTHER WORD

"Perhaps I should have used the word 'forged,'" he said.

This provoked a series of hot exchanges. Michael Starr, Interim Opposition Leader, said Mr. Martin was "returning to the cannibalism" he had showed in days as an opposition member between 1957 and 1963.

Mr. Martin said repeatedly that he had made no accusation and Mr. Churchill finally dropped his question of privilege.

powerful has the right to interfere in the matters of other countries except under the auspices of the United Nations." He did not connect the U.S. to this statement.

Mr. Starr suggested that Mr. Martin make a clear-cut statement on Vietnam and that the Commons debate the issue for a day.

PEARSON'S IF

Prime Minister Pearson said this would be useful if the parliamentary timetable allowed for such a debate.

George Hees (PC—Northumberland) said CP is singularly accurate. He asked whether Mr. Martin considers that the U.S. has a right to be in Vietnam or not.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled the question out of order.

Martin Grateful For Correction

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin said Tuesday in the Commons that he is grateful to The Canadian Press for correcting as quickly as it did an erroneous report on his Toronto speech Monday.

Michael Starr, interim Opposition leader, asked about the erroneous CP report when the question period opened. CP had quoted Mr. Martin as saying that United States had no right to be in Vietnam.

UN AUSPICES

Mr. Martin said he did not make any such reference to the U.S. CP had corrected its erroneous report and he was grateful to the news agency for its quick correction.

Mr. Martin said at Toronto that "no nation no matter how

Let's Move Calgary—Planner

CALGARY (CP) — A consulting architect for three major Calgary complexes suggested Monday the city was built on the wrong site.

Daniel U. Kiley said Indians used the current site as a watering place for their horses, but would pitch their tents on higher ground.

The consultant said the city was built on flood plains and the best solution would be to re-locate it on the outskirts of the current city limits.

Five-Year Collision Cost $2,000,000

Gulls for the Birds, Airlines Find

MONTREAL (CP) — A member of the National Research Council says Canada's major commercial airlines have lost $2,000,000 in the last five years because of birds striking aircraft.

Harrison F. Lewis of Ottawa, a member of the council's associate committee on bird hazards to aircraft, says in a report in the International Civil Aviation Organization's magazine that airlines lost that sum as a direct result of more than 1,000 bird-aircraft collisions.

He says that if a jet travelling 600 miles an hour struck a four-pound bird, the effect on the aircraft would be that of a blow from an object weighing 54 tons.

Apart from obvious damage to the plane's structure, damage costs when a bird is sucked into a jet engine can reach $250,000.

Most strikes occur in the area of airports. Research into ways of preventing such accidents include defolating entire areas surrounding airports.

Information received from ICAO member countries shows that gulls are most often involved in strikes in western countries and that two-thirds of all strikes reported occurred at altitudes below 500 feet.

Air Canada had 147 bird strikes in 1966. Annual strike rates per 100,000 plane movements show, however, that despite an increase in gull population the number of strikes is decreasing.

Plane movements are takeoffs and landings.

The 1966 rate of 4.35 per 100,000 movements is down from the 1964 rate of 5.98 and the 1963 rate of 6.18. The 1965 rate was 4.18.

An indication of the costly damage such collisions bring is a 1961 incident in which an Air Canada DC-8 hit a pheasant as it took off from Vancouver International Airport. Damage was $230,000.

The RCAF attributed $2,000,000 worth of damage to bird strikes between 1961 and 1963 and increases in strikes since that time were believed to be caused by an increase in low-level flying and an increase in the number of flying hours.

Methods of beating the problem, already in use include tape-recorded bird distress calls, shotgun blasts and falcons which keep gulls away.

A space-age solution being investigated by the National Research Council is the projection of microwave radiation a mile ahead of the plane. If this could be done it might disorient birds so they would fall clear of the path of the aircraft.

To be effective, it would have to affect the birds' nervous systems within the six seconds it takes a jet to cover a mile travelling at 600 miles an hour.

Windsor Road Program Gets Go-Slow Backing

Oak Bay work crews should embark on a $134,437 reconstruction program of Windsor Road between Newport and Victoria Avenues—but should do it in two phases.

This was the conclusion Oak Bay council's "B" committee came to Tuesday night after municipal engineer G. O. White submitted two cost alternatives for the project.

The committee will recommend to council that no more than $90,000 of the work be done this year and the rest be finished in late 1968.

Coun. J. D. Watts said reconstruction of the road at a 36-foot width would be "more worthwhile" than a 30-foot width at $123,000.

The committee also decided Tuesday night to recommend to council that more crosswalk warning lines be painted on Henderson Road at Uplands School. The no-parking area on the street at the school will also be extended, and Police Chief W. J. Green said parking laws in the area would be more intensively enforced.

Chief Green said police and the Oak Bay engineering department planned to continue traffic counts at the school.

COSTLY PLAN

The committee rejected a proposal by the Oak Bay Board of Trade that two-hour parking limits and painted space marks be established in the municipality's Oak Bay Avenue shopping district.

Coun. Frances Elford said policing of timed parking limits would be too costly, and Chief Green said the number of parking spaces would be diminished if spaces were painted on pavement.

In a letter, the Board of Trade said motorists were using available parking spaces for all-day parking. Chief Green commented: "Most of those people using the spaces for the whole day are members of the Board of Trade. I suggest they take care of the situation themselves."

France Contributes

Help Speeding To Sick Pound

The sick pound sterling was shaken again Tuesday when the British Board of Trade announced an October deficit of $299,600,000, the largest recorded in any month since balances were reported in their present form and $92,400,000 more than in January, 1964, the previous worst month.

The Board of Trade stressed the deficit was due to the dock strikes at Liverpool and London which had wrecked the export trade. Others said it was the direct result of Prime Minister Wilson's economic philosophy. To save the pound from devaluation, the new Bank for International Settlements offered new loan of $250,000,000 which Britain accepted on a seven-to-18-month repayment spread.

Swiss banks are also reported to have increased the promised loan of $250,000,000 to $280,000,000 while a dispatch from Paris said France was contributing $40,000,000 as a goodwill gesture, although it "considered the pound too sick to be saved."

The threat of a new devaluation of the pound has been a major cause of weakness in the Canadian and U.S. money markets in the past few weeks.

UVic Sets the Date

University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm Taylor has announced the school of social work will enrol its first students in September, 1969.

The board of governors has authorized hiring a director. Courses will lead to the degree of Master of Social Work and undergraduate offerings in social work are being considered now.

City council's public works committee Tuesday abandoned a two-year-old, $2,000,000 elevated road concept in the Bay Street-Rock area, one of several schemes considered for replanning of the industrial section. Butler Bros., which owns property in the area, asked for a decision pending industrial development and the idea was dropped so Butlers can proceed with its project.

Committee, will start at 8 p.m. today in Mount View high school. It will deal with sewage disposal and related pollution problems.

North Saanich ratepayers will hear details of a forthcoming supplementary school construction referendum at a meeting at 8 p.m. today in North Saanich junior high school.

Another concert in the Beethoven Sonata series will be held at the University of Victoria in the Education Arts Building at 8 p.m. today.

Rival bids by Pacific Hovercraft Ltd. and Inter Air Travel Ltd. for a hovercraft service across the Gulf of Georgia will be heard by a federal commission in Victoria Dec. 4. The hearing before the air transport committee of the new Canadian Transport Commission is expected to last two days in the Law Courts.

Great Train Robbery Linked to Big Haul?

LONDON (AP)—Loot from Britain's Great Train Robbery Aug. 8, 1963, may have been the lure for a gang of crooks who robbed a London safety deposit strongroom during the weekend of a possible $3,000,000, police said Tuesday.

Police said the crooks, who worked to split-second timing, gave indications by the pattern of their raid that they knew what they were after.

Less than $2,000,000 was recovered from the $7,800,000 train robbery. Police said a large share of the loot is still stashed away—probably in private safety deposit boxes.

Royal Day Big One

VALLETTA (Reuters)—Malta gave Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip a gay and affectionate welcome Tuesday when they arrived for a three-day state visit, Malta's first during 160 years of British rule. Prince Charles was absent, celebrating his 19th birthday quietly at Cambridge.

'I'd Do It Again'

Philby Talks!

MOSCOW (UPI) — Harold Philby, 55, the British double-agent who served Russia as a spy in London and Washington for 30 years, Tuesday gave his first interview since reaching Moscow in 1963, saying he had no regrets over his defection and loyalty to Russia.

Philby said the depression and the split in British socialism in the 1930s led him to devote his life to "a fight for communism."

"That's why I did it," he said. "I would do it again tomorrow."

Philby said he is living well in a large, comfortable apartment supplied by the Kremlin, in whose intelligence service he works. He said he was "never happier and certainly never healthier" but declined to discuss wife Melina, formerly married to fellow spy Donald Mackay.

"I was a perfectly genuine Socialist up to 1931," Philby said. "But after that I became disaffected with British politics and set out on another fateful course."

The basic event, he said, was the "disastrous split" of the Labor Party under Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald in 1931.

"I can't say that my conversion (to communism) happened at any fixed point in time," he said. "I had two pretty hard years, from 1931 to 1933."

"But I do know that, after those two years of painful thought, I had made up my mind by June, 1933. I was already a Communist."

"The background of my thinking was the economic crisis and massive unemployment in the capitalist world, and the apparent helplessness of existing forces to deal with it."

Ousting of Liberals 'Act of Patriotism'

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield, who will be sworn in as an MP this morning, said Tuesday it would be an "act of patriotism" if his party was to oust the Liberal government.

He said the party will seize any opportunity it can to defeat the government in the Commons and thus force an election, putting the most pressure on the issue of government "mismanagement" of its financial operations.

Stanfield said he won't make a major speech for several days.

Productivity Contract Key

The first labor agreement in Canada to be based on productivity was signed in Victoria Tuesday night.

The Victoria Mechanical Industrial Relations Association and Local 324 of the Plumbers and Pipe Fitters Union ratified a new wage agreement to become effective Nov. 24.

COUNCIL SUGGESTION

M. J. Griffin, who headed the mechanical contractors' negotiating committee, said:

"This new agreement follows the suggestions of the Economical Council of Canada and bases all wage increases on increases in cost-of-living index and in productivity."

"It should not therefore be inflationary."

INTO 1971

The new agreement replaces a five-year agreement that would terminate March 31, 1969. The new agreement will extend to March 31, 1971.

A transition payment of 17 cents an hour, effective Nov. 24, will increase the hourly wage from $3.88 to $4.05. Further transition payments will be made until March 31, 1969 — when the original five-year agreement would have terminated — so that by then Victoria plumbers and pipefitters journeymen will be receiving $4.65 an hour.

BASED ON INDEX

The new wage formula becomes effective April 1, 1969, and is based on cost-of-living index as calculated on the average national consumer price index for the Sept. 1 to Aug. 31 period of the preceding year.

It is also based on productivity. On April 1, 1969, and again on April 1 the following year, the journeymen will receive a productivity increase of 3.5 per cent. This increase is based on the increased output per worker in the construction industry between 1951 and 1966.

This will mean that if the cost of living increased 2 per cent annually between now and 1970 journeymen will receive $4.92 an hour on April 1, 1969, and $5.20 per hour on April 1 the next year.

Civil War Revived In Yemen

ALGIERS (Reuters) — The Algerian government press service said Tuesday night forces of FLOSY, the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen, are marching on Aden and have been bombed by British planes.

The report came after Britain announced it will open negotiations on the independence of South Arabia with the National Liberation Front, which has been engaged in a bloody power struggle with FLOSY.

Watts Key Arrested

ALTADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Marquette Fry, 23, whose arrest for drunk driving has been blamed for touching off the multi-death Watts riot of 1965 in Los Angeles, was among three men arrested here Tuesday for investigation on suspicion of trying to break into a market.

Soccer Finish Unusual

Unusual goal, flying past Victoria High goalie Kjeld Brodsgaard, Tuesday gave Mount View 3-2 victory in second sudden-death final game for Colonial Cup and south Island high school soccer title. First game Friday ended 1-1 and second saw two goals in last minute, Vic High getting tie in dying seconds. Teams agreed on spot kicks until someone missed, Dennis Sommer scoring this one for Mount View and Brodsgaard, who was high kicker, then missing at other end. And Finance Lectures

Bargain Hunting Bennett Goal

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett flies to Ottawa today to bargain, lecture and bargain some more.

The bargaining that goes on in the federal-provincial conference of finance ministers will almost certainly include the issues of federal contributions towards medicine in B.C. after next July 1.

Outside the conference the premier will also have talks with External Affairs Minister Martin on clearing up the overdue U.S. $12,000,000 payment for Columbia River Treaty flood control benefits.

TEMPTATION

Mr. Bennett said Tuesday he proposes to "keep an open mind" — ready to learn, ready to listen. But few expect him to resist the temptation to tell Finance Minister Sharp how to put national finances in order.

There is apparently no formal brief to be presented by B.C. at the Ottawa meeting which lasts through Thursday and Friday. But recently the premier has been publicly rehearsing the speech which everyone expects him to make on this occasion.

He claims deficit financing and the huge national debt are primary causes of inflation in Canada. He has also outlined what steps B.C. is taking to curb inflationary forces in this province.

AVOID DEBT

They include staying out of debt and keeping increases in provincial spending in line with growth in population and ordering crown corporations and other groups whose debt is government guaranteed to borrow only for essential projects.

While national medicare and its possible postponement after the announced July 1, 1969 starting date is not on the conference agenda it is almost certain to be fully discussed.

GRANTS JULY 1

Recently, Sharp and other federal ministers have indicated Ottawa can't afford to launch the national scheme on schedule but they add federal grants will be available July 1 to those provinces with their own plans.

This, in federal eyes, means Saskatchewan only, but B.C. claims its provincial medicare

Death Waits Decade

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A man died Monday without regaining consciousness, 10 years after an elevator cable snapped and plunged 19 construction workers five stories.

Charles Nelson was the eighth man to die from the mishap. Five died the day the elevator took its plunge. Two others died a short time later.

LBJ DEFIES POLLS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is quoted in a labor newspaper as saying he will pursue peace with honor in Vietnam even though "I may wind up with a poll of one per cent before it's over with."

Johnson's quote in The Machinist apparently referred to recent polls reflecting a drop in his popularity among many Americans.

The latest Louis Harris poll indicated Monday support for Johnson's determination "to fight on until a negotiated peace is reached" had dropped 11 per cent in a month to only 26 per cent in late October.

And the Gallup Poll reported Monday that for the first time since 1957 Americans expressed more confidence in the Republican party in handling the war and other U.S. problems than in the Democratic party.

"We can't end it with honor by surrendering," Johnson says of the war in the article in the newspaper of the International Association of Machinists.

"We can't end it with honor by negotiation because he enemy will not negotiate with us," the president says.

A union spokesman said Johnson's remarks were made to a group of labor union officials at a White House luncheon.

A White House spokesman said Tuesday such a meeting was held.

Peace in Hours Prevented By Hanoi Stand

NEW YORK (UPI) — As thousands of antiwar demonstrators rioted outside the New York Hilton Hotel, U.S. Secretary of State Rusk said inside Tuesday night peace could come to Vietnam in hours if Hanoi agreed to "minimum co-operation" with the U.S.

He spoke shortly after North Vietnam turned down the latest Washington peace offer, and also disclosed Red China has turned down several U.S. proposals for better relations.

In the violence outside, bottles of ink and other objects were thrown at police who charged the demonstrators with nightsticks swinging. Five policemen and three others were injured and 20 demonstrators arrested before the mob of 3,000 broke up.

Rusk touched only briefly on Vietnam in a speech to the Foreign Policy Association on its 50th anniversary, warning of the dangers of backing down unilaterally. (See also Page 30.)

"Those who are concerned about escalation," he said, "should know we have tried over and over again, through diplomacy and by practical actions on the ground, to start the process of de-escalation, only to face a categorical rejection from the other side."

"All violence could end within hours with minimum co-operation from the authorities in Hanoi."

His main topic was The Political Future of the Family of Man and, while discussing the

Republican Liberal Wins

Voters Veto Shirley

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. — Former child movie idol Shirley Temple Black, 39, went down to an upset defeat in a special U.S. congressional byelection Tuesday at the hands of Paul McCloskey, 40, a liberal Republican and Korean war hero.

The result means that Mc-

Closkey, who piled up a lead of more than 12,000 votes over Mrs. Black with 400 of 575 precincts reporting, will face the leading Democrat, Roy Archibald, in a runoff election Dec. 12.

Mrs. Black's bad news started coming within minutes of the closing of the polls when she lost her home precinct to McCloskey, 75 to 66.

The open primary, in which voters of either party can freely cross party lines, calls for the leading Republican to face the leading Democrat in a runoff. Tuesday's election would have been settled if any candidate had polled 51 per cent of the votes.

With all but 11 of the 575 precincts reporting, McCloskey had piled up 50,634 votes to 33,015 for Mrs. Black. Among the Democrats, Archibald led Edward Keating 14,645 votes to 8,564.

The 11 candidates included five Republicans, five Democrats and an independent. The byelection was held to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Republican Rep. Arthur Younger last spring.

Main issues were the "Hollywood backlash" and the Vietnam war, on which Mrs. Black was a hawk and McCloskey a dove.

Elsewhere in U.S. politics, former Minnesota governor Harold Stassen, a frequent candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said he will try again in the Wisconsin 1968 Republican primary as a "peace candidate."

Family Loses Home In Wellington Fire

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO — Fire swept through a Wellington house early Tuesday night, leaving a family of six homeless. The Alex Thompson home, just off Minetown Road, seven miles south of Nanaimo, was damaged beyond repair by the fire which apparently started in the attic.

Flames licked through the roof and through the attic floor into the main floor.

The attic was gutted. The remainder of the house was badly damaged by fire, smoke and water.

Start Afresh

"We were just having supper when Robert, our eldest, spotted it," said Mr. Thompson. "I'm going to have to pull it down and start afresh." He started renovating the house five years ago, putting a lot of time, money and effort into the job.

Old Treasures

"It was partly insured, but this never covers everything. The kitchen was one of the hardest parts hit, and this is where all the old family possessions, such as silverware and crystal were kept.

"They can never be replaced," he said. The family had already purchased its Christmas presents, which were being kept in the attic. "Yes, they're all destroyed," said Thompson.

Billeted Out

Residents in the area came to the family's aid immediately. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Robert, 10, and Sandy, 8, are staying with Wayne Banks. The family's youngest son, Gordon, 7, is staying with George Tilley. The grandfather is staying with his son, William Lambrey.

Thompson, a worker at nearby Harmac, said: "The future hasn't been decided yet. Everything is in a turmoil, but I'm going on shift tomorrow."

Women Help

Volunteer firewomen from the Cranberry Fire Department, which was first on the scene minutes after the call was sounded, acted as a ground crew, releasing firemen to attack flames on the roof. The women, some with nets on their hair under their firemen's hats, included Mildred Thatcher, Jean Travers, Irene Renton, Beverly Williams and Georgina Bonkowski.

They had been preparing to attend a 7 p.m. meeting in the district.

But the fire took precedence. The Cranberry unit had to call for help when their tank ran dry.

A nearby well was used and shortly afterwards the Chase River Fire Department, using a Harewood truck while theirs is being repaired, arrived on the scene.

Lines Cut

Three men from the Cedar Fire Department also attended the blaze, while eight more waited in readiness in the Cedar hall.

Flames leapt more than 10 feet into the air when the fire gained a strong hold in the upper section, forcing a B.C. Hydro crew cut all power and telephone lines along the street.

Firewoman Thatcher, who lives on Thatcher Road, said there will be a shower for the family.

"Everybody will try to help them as much as possible."

Classics Winner

A Duncan girl now attending the University of Victoria has been awarded a $100 scholarship by the B.C. Association of Teachers of Classics.

She is Penni Shaw, who studied Latin at Queen Margaret's School last term and earned a mark of 91 per cent. Miss Shaw is continuing her study of Latin at the university.

A second scholarship was won by Vancouver student Frances Connell, who registered a mark of 90.5 per cent.

'Let's Buy Newcastle'

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO — Here is a quick look at this city's future: owner of Newcastle Island . . . most exciting city in the province . . . a streamlined city council.

Voters can choose the concept they like best, when they vote for a new mayor Dec. 9.

The three men running for the job have made their positions clear.

Ald. Jack Parker said "This is a pretty good time in the history of Nanaimo, and experience is needed to fill the office of mayor. I think I've got the experience."

Not the Way

Businessman Frank Ney said corporate knowledge is needed to manage the city properly. Ney said, "It's not so much a problem of whether or not we want amalgamation, but whether or not it's practical."

Ald. Ted Barsby said "You can have anything you want in this town, as long as you're willing to pay for it." He admitted this position is "not the way to win votes."

Parker has served on city council for nine years, and was on the recreation commission for six years previously.

He touched on the necessity for many items to be given to the regional district, on which he serves as chairman.

Individually

He said transportation, ambulance, and garbage services, planning and parks purchases could be given over to the district, rather than being handled through the city and surrounding improvement districts, individually.

He said Newcastle Island and Exhibition Park should be surveyed with a view to purchase, "while we can get them."

Ney said "The secret of good leadership is delegation and organization. I would like to see this become the most beautiful and exciting city in British Columbia."

Aged Safety

He cited roads, sidewalks, city beautification, safety for children, and aged, and a promenade along the waterfront as items needed, suggesting urban renewal be given consideration to accomplish their provision.

"Votes that are purchased by making promises that can't be fulfilled, create a government built on quicksand," he said.

One of the first orders of business if Barsby were mayor, would be to streamline council into a group in which every councillor would have complete knowledge of each issue.

He said the system under which Mayor Pete Maffeo conducted city business, had been functional during the mayor's time in office.

But as council business was handled by committees of three, each alderman serving on several committees, full knowledge was not available to some council members.

"Six heads are better than three," he maintained.

He warned that council might meet longer, but indicated the people would then know more about how the business would be conducted, and know more accurately how each member "thinks, says, and contributes."

He said the system would encourage more participation by both groups and individuals, concerning city business.

Ney said, "It's not so much a problem of whether or not we want amalgamation, but whether or not it's practical."

Election Races Get Hot

Benzies

Four Seats Open

Benzies Eyes Development

DUNCAN — A long-range plan of development for the city of Duncan and the community at large is suggested by the latest entrant in the Dec. 9 election, Richard H. Benzie.

The 38-year-old married man and father of Craig, 9, and Colin, 6, suggested the development plan should be "based on the existing recommendations of the professional town planners."

There will be four vacant seats in the municipal election.

Monday night Ald. Homer Alex resigned in mid-term because of poor health and growing business obligations.

Alex weathered two elections and both times topped the polls, remarked Ald. Kim Saunders.

Alex's term would not have expired until December, 1968. To date, five candidates are ready for the election fight: incumbent Tom Kipateck, Bob Mason, Roy Harder, Dick Benzie and Elmore Clark.

Benzies is operating and sales supervisor with the Eaton's at Duncan and is president of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

For the past two years, Benzie has been a director of the Zenith Gyro Club of Duncan and Saturday he was installed as the club's new vice-president.

He came to Duncan in 1964. Benzie said, "During the past three years as a member of the city advisory planning commission I have felt a need for a stronger voice on city council to insure implementation of effective city development."

He calls for "acceleration of the planning and implementation for development of regional recreational facilities."

As a director of the local chamber, he had been instrumental in the formation of a city of Duncan recreation commission a few years ago.

He said support from the council for the advisory planning and the recreation commissions is necessary.

The top position on council is being contested by incumbent Ald. Hamish Mutter and Duncan-Township adult advisor Jim Quife.

Ald. Barney Cocks, whose term will expire this year, has not yet decided whether he will run again.

Parents Must Move First To Get Rink for Skating

DUNCAN — Ald. Martin Lukaitis made a strong bid to have the curling rink on James Street opened temporarily for skating with civic assistance. Council agreed to meet with North Cowichan council and the owners of the rink to discuss the feasibility of this proposal.

Mayor Jack Dobson was a bit doubtful about the suggestion.

"Let parents call a meeting and let them ask for the opening of the rink," Lukaitis stressed, "I have been approached by many parents."

He added it is the duty of the council not to deprive the children of this area of an exhilarating sport which develops the mind and the body. "This council has the responsibility to see what can be done to open up the rink."

Lukaitis suggested the rink should be opened for a few months during the winter.

He told city council there was an indication that North Cowichan council would be happy to open up the rink for a few months.

Lukaitis hinted the monthly cost would be about $300 and councils should subsidize the deficit.

Owners of the rink did not reopen the rink this fall claiming the loss would be smaller.

A request from the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce to have the city replace the white festive light strings with colored bulbs during the Christmas season will be studied by the city's streets committee.

The mayor said the city has been criticized for the plain white lights, but they give the maximum of light and don't interfere with lighted store decorations and don't conflict with traffic lights.

Highway Deaths Probed

DUNCAN — An inquest into the Memorial Day holiday weekend deaths of a Vancouver woman and her mother has been adjourned until Dec. 4.

Killed in the highway car crash near Duncan was Mrs. Bernice Constance Thom, 43, and her mother, Mrs. Kathleen McChrister, 74, Sudbury, Ont.

Stanley Thom, 48, was taken to King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan after the head-on accident, suffering from face and leg injuries.

DUNCAN — A garage mechanic testified a spring in a car involved in a fatal crash "was partially broken," before the accident.

Frederick Fidler, head mechanic of a garage at Duncan, was giving evidence at an inquest into the death of William Louis Hille, 35, of Cobble Hill Oct. 20.

He was describing the condition of the spring in the vehicle of John Grocott, Duncan, who was driving a small truck involved with the Hille car.

Impossible

Other evidence indicated the broken spring would make the truck almost impossible to control. But the driver was unable to shed light on the crash.

He told the jury members, "I left my shop and that's all I remember. I woke up in the hospital sometime Saturday morning."

The accident occurred about 6:30 p.m. on the Trans-Canada Highway, about half a mile south of Duncan.

No Drink

He said he did not drink. James William English of Campbell River stated he and his family had come to visit the Hille family on the day of the accident.

He left his wife at the Hille home, and returned to Duncan with Hille's son, Billy. English stayed at Hille's Barber Shop until closing time, and then followed Hille on his homeward journey.

Abrupt

"As we approached the intersection, I saw a half-ton truck which looked to be stopped on the shoulder. It (the truck) pulled out and looked like it was going into the flow of traffic. Just as it came abreast of Hille, it made an abrupt left hand turn in front of Hille's car."

The parade of witnesses lasted three and one-half hours. The jury was out for 22 minutes.

Afterwards

Service manager of a Duncan garage, Murray Rayworth, stated he had inspected Grocott's 1955 Fargo pickup after the accident.

He found the spring on the left front was broken, and he felt the spring had been partially broken prior to the accident.

He said, "In my opinion, the spring broke completely before the impact of the accident. This could have caused the vehicle to veer sharply to the left. The truck would be almost impossible to control even at 30 miles an hour."

He added the spring was broken in a place which could be difficult to notice during a routine checkup on the vehicle.

Graduates Tailored For Office Work

COURTENAY — A survey is being made here to find out what is needed to produce commerce graduates from the senior high who would be capable of going directly into an office without leaving the district for further training.

The survey, one of two being made in the school district, will be carried out by John Walsh. It will also deal with course content, achievement, needed improvements, revision of texts and liaison with local businessmen.

Walsh, a director of instruction with the school district, has won unanimous support from the trustees.

"I see no reason why the plan should not work," he told them.

Also at the board meeting, school superintendent Ron Lucas said three more centennial service medals have been awarded to Comox Valley residents.

The recipients will be Henry Schellinek, principal of Georges P. Vanier senior high; Mrs. Beryl Regier, part-time teacher at the same school and head of the Vancouver Island summer school of the arts; and Mrs. Georgina F. Shaw, a remedial teacher at Courtenay and Arden elementary schools.

Lucas said all three had given outstanding service to the schools of the district. Trustees agreed and instructed that congratulatory letters be sent to the three teachers.

Fred Barrows, a member of the school districts maintenance staff, has been honored with the presentation of a gift to mark his retirement.

Good wishes were extended by board chairman Dr. Dennis Bulten, who made the presentation. Trustees learned that Vice-Admiral Malmgren (ret.), has been appointed commander of the fleet in salary negotiations between the board and teachers.

Unless the matter is brought to a successful conclusion by Nov. 15, the matter will go to arbitration.

Arbitration proceedings must be concluded by Dec. 31.

Tenders for vinyl asbestos floor tile at Tsolum have been opened and according to Stan Rowe, maintenance supervisor, "are high."

He estimated the lowest tender at more than $20 per square foot. The matter has been referred to the building committee who will review the project and report at the next board meeting.

The first meeting has been held with John Walsh as coordinator.

One sub-committee has prepared a questionnaire designed to survey present library facilities in the district.

This survey has been carried out and will be analysed in the near future, according to superintendent Lucas.

A second sub-committee has begun preparing a report outlining present functions of libraries and librarians. The aim is to present a picture of a desirable standard of library facilities and a profile of an "ideal" librarian.

The former long-time mayor, said he disliked using the word demand but that nothing less strong would do. In view of recent apathy by voters, civic officials should be going out of their way to make it easier for people to vote, not make it harder.

Jordan suggested the former Alberni city hall and Port Alberni city hall should also be named as polling stations.

Meanwhile, in school board elections, the seat held by trustee Bob MacDonald will become vacant Dec. 31.

This seat has always previously been filled by a MacMillan Bloedel appointee.

The custom dates back to times when the company provided school facilities in logging camps adjacent to the Valley. With changing times, this custom will be ending Dec. 31.

The rural vacancy on the school board is being sought by 51-year-old longshoreman Mark Mosher, of Cherry Creek.

Single Alberni Poll Attacked

"I agree it's a wonderful opportunity to show off the centre to the voters, but I feel it's a great hardship to those voters north of Roger Street (formerly Alberni), let alone all those south of Argyle."

"Council apparently wants consolidation at all costs, even to the extra inconvenience of those wishing to cast their ballots."

With the increasing number of voters resulting from amalgamation we must have more than one polling station.

"On behalf of the voters of this city, I demand an increase to three polling stations," he said.

NANAIMO — The two government departments that are closest to the people are the one that helps you make money, and the one that takes much of it away.

Canada Manpower and the tax department are the two that keep in contact with the citizen, said Peter All, director of Pacific operations for Canada Manpower.

In a speech here he outlined the steady growth of services to the unemployed, and finding suitable employees.

He traced the growth of the department from its earliest days during the "Dirty 30s" when each province looked after its own unemployed.

The birth of the National Employment Office and Unemployment Insurance Commission to the present manpower offices was traced.

He said in 1956 a new term was born for a unique trend — "Labor market distortion."

To combat this, the department now helps finance workers to get to the job.

"We've got to be able to tell Canadians how to get there," he said.

He said that in 1939, a third of the country was employed in agriculture.

Now agriculture only employs seven per cent.

The economic council surveys indicated Canada is rich in everything but people.

"Of the few people we have, many don't have enough skills... and those are found in the wrong places."

Immigrants are chosen today. On the basis of the skills and training they now have, and we need, he said.

"If he can't communicate he has no skill at all," he added. The department assists those who cannot speak English.

He said business is to blame for much of its problems in lack of skilled employees.

He said industry and business will plan for every event, from replacement of machinery to selling stocks, but not for obtaining skilled workers.

"Hardly anyone plans for their manpower needs," he said.

He told the group if industry maintained communication with Manpower, the department could seek the necessary men, and train them if need be.

"Canadian employers are not doing their fair share of helping the disabled," he maintained. The disabled could give valuable worth for their pay dollar.

He added the young man with a shining diploma is frequently told to get experience first, and he warned half of the population is less than 25 years of age.

Referring again to lack of communication, he admitted Manpower's "information system is totally inadequate."

Firemen Light Bonfire Night

UNION BAY — Fire Chief Ken Peters and members of the fire department gave children here a treat with the big bonfire night.

Flames from the towering bonfire lit the area around Coal Beach, where 65 children gathered and ate.

Great quantities of hot dogs, buns, soft drinks and marshmallows were consumed by the throng.

Members of the Ellen McKay Circle are planning a church anniversary soon.

The Evening Circle of Union Bay United held a fall rally in the church, with United Church Women from Chemainus to the northern tip of the Island represented. There were 60 women at the meeting.

Rev. Dean Boundy, who is minister at Cumberland, Union Bay and Denman Island, led Bible study.

The centennial committee was in charge of a recent cabaret at the community hall.

Shirley McKay's silver cartoons created instant atmosphere. Doris Scavarda headed the food committee, with help from women like Doris Gustavson, Irene James, Nellie King, Myrtle McKay, Marilyn Richardson, Donna Scavarda and Catherine Stewart.

'I'd Do It Again'

Philby Talks!

MOSCOW (UPI) — Harold Philby, 55, the British double-agent who served Russia as a spy in London and Washington for 30 years, Tuesday gave his first interview since reaching Moscow in 1963, saying he had no regrets over his defection and loyalty to Russia.

Philby said the depression and the split in British socialism in the 1930s led him to devote his life to "a fight for communism."

"That's why I did it," he said. "I would do it again tomorrow."

ment supplied by the Kremlin, in whose intelligence service he works. He said he was "never happier and certainly never healthier" but declined to discuss wife Melinda, formerly married to fellow spy Donald Maclean.

"I was a perfectly genuine Socialist up to 1931," Philby said. "But after that I became disaffected with British politics and set out on another fateful course."

The basic event, he said, was the "disastrous split" of the Labor Party under Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald in 1931.

"I can't say that my conversion (to communism) happened at any fixed point in time," he said. "I had two pretty hard years, from 1931 to 1933."

"But I do know that, after those two years of painful thought, I had made up my mind by June, 1933. I was already a Communist."

"The background of my thinking was the economic crisis and massive unemployment in the capitalist world, and the apparent helplessness of existing forces to deal with it."

Ousting of Liberals 'Act of Patriotism'

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield, who will be sworn in as an MP this morning, said Tuesday it would be an "act of patriotism" if his party was to oust the Liberal government.

He said the party will seize any opportunity it can to defeat the government in the Commons and thus force an election, putting the most pressure on the issue of government "mismanagement" of its financial operations.

Stanfield said he won't make a major speech for several days.

First in Canada

Productivity Contract Key

The first labor agreement in Canada to be based on productivity was signed in Victoria Tuesday night.

The Victoria Mechanical Industrial Relations Association and Local 324 of the Plumbers and Pipe Fitters Union ratified a new wage agreement to become effective Nov. 24.

M. J. Griffin, who headed the mechanical contractors' negotiating committee, said:

"This new agreement follows the suggestions of the Economical Council of Canada and bases all wage increases on increases in productivity."

INTO 1971

"It should not therefore be inflationary."

The new agreement replaces a five-year agreement that would terminate March 31, 1969.

The new agreement will extend to March 31, 1971.

A transition payment of 17 cents an hour, effective Nov. 24, will increase the hourly wage from $3.88 to $4.05. Further transition payments will be made until March 31, 1969 — when the original five-year agreement would have terminated — so that by then Victoria plumbers and pipefitters journeymen will be receiving $4.65 an hour.

BASED ON INDEX

The new wage formula becomes effective April 1, 1969, and is based on cost-of-living index as calculated on the average national consumer price index for the Sept. 1 to Aug. 31 period of the preceding year.

It is also based on productivity.

On April 1, 1969, and again on April 1 the following year, the journeymen will receive a productivity increase of 3.5 per cent. This increase is based on the increased output per worker in the construction industry between 1951 and 1966.

This will mean that if the cost of living increased 2 per cent annually between now and 1970 journeymen will receive $4.92 an hour on April 1, 1969, and $5.20 per hour on April 1 the next year.

Civil War Revived In Yemen

ALGIERS (Reuters) — The Algerian government press service said Tuesday night FLOSY, the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen, are marching on Aden and have been bombed by British planes.

The report came after Britain announced it will open negotiations on the independence of South Arabia with the National Liberation Front, which has been engaged in a bloody power struggle with FLOSY.

Watts Key Arrested

Soccer Finish Unusual

Unusual goal, flying past Victoria High goalie Kjeld Brodsgaard, Tuesday gave Mount View 3-2 victory in second sudden-death final game for Colonist Cup and south Island high school soccer title. First game Friday ended 1-1 and second saw two goals in last minute, Vic High getting tie in dying seconds. Teams agreed on spot kicks until someone missed. Dennis Sommer scoring this one for Mount View and Brodsgaard, ace Vic High kicker, then missing at other end. Full details are on Page 14. — (Jim Ryan)

And Finance Lectures

Bargain Hunting Bennett Goal

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett flies to Ottawa today to bargain, lecture and bargain some more.

The bargaining that goes on in the federal-provincial conference of finance ministers will almost certainly include the issues of federal contributions to wards medicare in B.C. after next July 1.

Outside the conference the premier will also have talks with External Affairs Minister Martin on clearing up the overdue U.S. $12,000,000 payment for Columbia River Treaty flood control benefits.

TEMPERATURE

Mr. Bennett said Tuesday he proposes to "keep an open mind — ready to learn, ready to listen." But few expect him to resist the temptation to tell Finance Minister Sharp how to put national finances in order.

There is apparently no formal brief to be presented by B.C. at the Ottawa meeting which lasts through Thursday and Friday. But recently the premier has been publicly rehearsing the speech which everyone expects him to make on this occasion.

He claims deficit financing and the huge national debt are primary causes of inflation in Canada. He has also outlined what steps B.C. is taking to curb inflationary forces in this province.

They include staying out of debt and keeping increases in provincial spending in line with growth in population and ordering crown corporations and other groups whose debt is government guaranteed to borrow only for essential projects.

While national medicare and its possible postponement after the announced July 1, 1968 starting date is not on the conference agenda it is almost certain to be fully discussed.

GRANTS JULY 1

Recently, Sharp and other federal ministers have indicated Ottawa can't afford to launch the national scheme on schedule but they add federal grants will be available July 1 to those provinces with their own plans.

This, in federal eyes, means Saskatchewan only, but B.C. claims its provincial medicare

LBJ DEFIANT

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is quoted in a labor newspaper as saying he will pursue peace with honor in Vietnam even though "I may wind up with a poll of one per cent before it's over with."

Johnson's quote in The Machinist apparently referred to recent polls reflecting a drop in his popularity among many Americans.

The latest Louis Harris poll indicated Monday support for Johnson's determination "to fight on until a negotiated peace is reached" had dropped 11 per cent in a month to only 26 per cent in late October.

And the Gallup Poll reported Monday that for the first time since 1957 Americans expressed more confidence in the Republican party in handling the war and other U.S. problems than in the Democratic party.

"We can't end it with honor by surrendering," Johnson says of the war in the article in the newspaper of the International Association of Machinists.

"We can't end it with honor by negotiation because he (the enemy) will not negotiate with us," the president says.

A union spokesman said Johnson's remarks were made to a group of labor union officials at an Oct. 25 White House luncheon. A White House spokesman said Tuesday such a meeting was held.

Peace in Hours Prevented By Hanoi Stand

NEW YORK (UPI) — As thousands of antiwar demonstrators rioted outside the New York Hilton Hotel, U.S. Secretary of State Rusk said inside Tuesday night peace could come to Vietnam in hours if Hanoi agreed to "minimum co-operation" with the U.S.

He spoke shortly after North Vietnam turned down the latest Washington peace offer, and also disclosed Red China has turned down several U.S. proposals for better relations.

In the violence outside, bottles of ink and other objects were thrown at police who charged the demonstrators with nightsticks swinging. Five policemen and three others were injured and 20 demonstrators arrested before the mob of 3,000 broke up.

Rusk touched only briefly on Vietnam in a speech to the Foreign Policy Association on its 50th anniversary, warning of the dangers of backing down unilaterally. (See also Page 3.)

"Those who are concerned about escalation," he said, "should know we have tried over and over again, through diplomacy and by practical actions on the ground, to start the process of de-escalation, only to face a categorical rejection from the other side."

"All violence could end within hours with minimum co-operation from the authorities in Hanoi."

Voters Veto Shirley

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. — Former child movie idol Shirley Temple Black, 39, went down to an upset defeat in a special U.S. congressional byelection Tuesday at the hands of Paul McCloskey, 40, a liberal Republican and Korean war hero.

The result means that Mc-

Closkey, who piled up a lead of more than 12,000 votes over Mrs. Black with 400 of 575 precincts reporting, will face the leading Democrat, Roy Archibald, in a runoff election Dec. 12.

Mrs. Black's bad news started coming within minutes of the closing of the polls when she lost her home precinct to McCloskey, 75 to 66.

The open primary, in which voters of either party can freely cross party lines, calls for the leading Republican to face the leading Democrat in a runoff.

Tuesday's election would have been settled if any candidate had polled 51 per cent of the votes.

With all but 11 of the 575 precincts reporting, McCloskey had piled up 50,634 votes to 33,015 for Mrs. Black. Among the Democrats, Archibald led Edward Keating 14,645 votes to 8,564.

The 11 candidates included five Republicans, five Democrats and an independent. The byelection was held to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Republican Rep. Arthur Younger last spring.

Main issues were the "Hollywood backlash" and the Vietnam war, on which Mrs. Black was a hawk and McCloskey a dove.

Elsewhere in U.S. politics, former Minnesota governor Harold Stassen, a frequent candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said he will try again in the Wisconsin 1968 Republican primary as a "peace candidate."
